

Poll Says 44% For Impeachment

Bork Promises Vigorous Probe

...Peterson In Charge

WASHINGTON (AP) — Demands for impeachment of President Nixon or his resignation mounted Monday in Washington as a scientific poll showed a thin plurality of Americans favoring impeachment.

NBC News said the poll showed 44 per cent in favor of impeachment, 43 per cent opposed and 13 per cent undecided. The Oliver Quayle organization contacted nearly 1,000 persons for the poll.

The poll was initiated after Nixon fired special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox. It showed 75 per cent of those questioned opposed to that action, 16 per cent approved and 9 per cent undecided, NBC said.

Meanwhile, the new acting attorney general pledged vigorous pursuit of the Watergate investigation.

House Speaker Carl Albert and other congressional leaders worked on plans for how to proceed with impeachment resolutions promised by angry members in the wake of Nixon's firing Saturday night of special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox.

U.S. Solicitor General Robert H. Bork said the staff and evidence assembled by Cox would be used to pursue the Watergate probe. Bork became acting attorney general when Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson quit and Deputy Atty. Gen. William D. Ruckelshaus was dismissed Saturday night over Cox's firing.

He put the investigation under the supervision of Henry E. Petersen, the assistant attorney general in charge of the criminal division.

Bork said he retains "ultimate authority and responsibility" for the investigation. When Nixon fired Cox, he also abolished the office of special prosecutor, which had handled the case since May.

While White House aides sought to mollify critical senators and congressmen with explanations of Nixon's action, criticism of the move continued to pile up — a significant amount of it from Republicans.

The AFL-CIO's national convention in Miami Beach, Fla., shouted approval to a resolution calling for Nixon to resign or be impeached if he didn't.

Sen. Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii, a member of the Senate Watergate committee, told the convention Nixon should resign because Americans "have suffered enough" and "must be spared this new pain and trauma."

The Watergate committee, which was to be in recess until Oct. 30, scheduled an emergency executive session for Thursday morning to discuss the latest developments.

The public flooded Western Union with telegrams to Washington. Some 8,000 were sent to Cox's former office.

Rep. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., proposed Monday that Nixon agree to resign in return for the immediate confirmation of House Minority Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan as vice president, and thus successor to Nixon.

Rep. Jerome Waldie, D-Calif., a member of the House Judiciary Committee, told a news conference Monday he would introduce a resolution Tuesday to impeach Nixon on grounds of obstructing justice.

Congress convenes Tuesday and will be presented with a number of proposals in addition to Waldie's.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., a member of the Senate Judiciary Committee, said he would introduce legislation to provide for appointment of a new special prosecutor by Chief Judge John J. Sirica of the U.S. District Court in Washington. Sirica is the judge most closely identified with Watergate court action.

The Senate Judiciary Committee scheduled a meeting for Wednesday. One member said it will consider holding public hearings later this week to examine the adequacy of Nixon's compromise with the Senate Watergate Committee on the tapes and to consider whether Nixon broke a pledge when he fired Cox.

Cox likely would be the first witness.

The hearings would both air the issues and lay groundwork for legislation such as Bayh proposes, a member said.

Other resolutions expected in the House would call for impeachment or provide for an investigation of whether impeachment should be considered.

These would go to the Judiciary Committee, already charged with conducting hearings on Nixon's nomination of Ford to be vice president.

Under the Constitution, The House can impeach a president by majority vote. This is roughly equivalent to bringing an indictment. The Senate then tries the case. A two-thirds vote there is necessary to convict. The penalty is removal from office.

Richardson said he would hold a news conference Tuesday morning.

At the White House, Nixon's lawyers drafted their next moves. One likely possibility, according to special counsel J. Fred Buzhardt, was that Nixon would file with Sirica an explanation of his action in the case.

A former White House aide to Nixon, William Safire, wrote in The New York Times Monday that Nixon is more worried about other evidence Cox was seeking than about the more publicized tapes recorded by a secret White House sound system.

City Council Reviews Two Zoning Requests

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

City lawmakers eyed two requests for commercial zoning Monday which, if approved, would allow the expansion of Gateway Realty Co. and the relocation of Du Teau Chevrolet's car dealership business.

A number of East Lincoln residents appeared before City Council members to register their opposition to Gateway Realty's request to rezone eight lots to F Restricted Commercial and G Local Business at O, Lyncrest and Eastridge Dr. The land is now zoned A-1 Single Family.

Attorney Dick Hartsock told council members that Raymond Gottner of the real estate firm is willing to accept F commercial zoning on the entire 3.5-acre tract of ground. The City-County Planning Commission recommended that course of action.

Contending that the lots are not suitable for residential development, Gottner said, "As a realtor I would not advise putting a home there."

"You'd have a filling station in your backyard and an arterial street in the front," he said.

Currently, Gateway Realty is using a portion of a vacated church on the site.

When asked by Councilwoman Helen Boosalis if an illegal use was being made of the property, Gottner replied that only a few people are doing clerical work in the basement. He said the firm would vacate the premises if the zoning change is denied.

Several residents, including Rolland Dudley supported the application, saying Gateway's plan to construct a "low profile" office building would blend into the area.

However, some 30 Eastridge and Eastmond neighbors disagreed.

Dr. Ralph Ebers said he believed some residents were not opposing the plan because they believe, "if we don't get this, we'll get a hamburger joint instead."

Ebers argued that the zoning change "would materially benefit only one person, Mr. Gottner. It would be his gain at our expense."

Carlton Paine said most of the residents supported Planning Director Doug Brogren's recommendation to zone the northern portion of the property fronting O for business use, while leaving the southern portion as is.

The council also held a hearing on Du Teau Chevrolet's application to permit a new and used car dealership and service center at U.S. 77 and Old Cheney Rd. The business is now located at 18th and O.

The planning commission rejected the application for a change of zone from A-2 Single Family to G Local Business on 14.6 acres of land.

Attorney Ed Perry pointed out that "from the standpoint of service, merchandising and land economy, they (car dealerships) don't belong downtown anymore."

He noted that the number of car businesses located in downtown Lincoln have dwindled through the years to three.

In attempting to find a suitable location for the business, Perry said Du Teau has encountered two problems. One is the requirement of the Chevrolet Division of General Motors to operate on 15 acres of ground and the second, is GM's requirement that dealerships must be located at least five miles away from each other. Mile Chevrolet is located at 48th and O.

"Cars are still part of our society," Perry stated, adding, "to say you can't have a site anywhere in south Lincoln is ridiculous."

The council is expected to take action on both requests next Monday at their night session.

Syria Snubs U.N. Cease-Fire Call . . .

Shooting Continues After Truce Deadline

By The Associated Press

Egypt and Israel ordered their troops to silence their guns Monday, but Syria snubbed a U.N. Middle East cease-fire appeal and fighting was reported continuing on both fronts hours after the beginning of the truce.

Israel charged Egyptian artillery was still shelling Israeli positions "in numerous locations" along the Suez Canal battle lines nearly 3½ hours after the cease-fire in place came into effect.

Cairo radio denied the charge and said the Israelis made it only to have a pretext for violations of their own.

Spokesmen in Tel Aviv declined to say whether the Israelis were firing back.

Cairo and Tel Aviv accepted the Security Council truce call in the morning hours but Damascus said only that it was studying it despite reported telephone discussions between Presidents Hafez Assad of Syria and Anwar Sadat of Egypt.

Iraq, the major Arab nation fighting with the Syrians, rejected the appeal outright and Jordan, with a small force in Syria, announced it would accept it on condition Syria agreed.

In New York, U. N. officials said the success of the cease-fire and an eventual peace settlement hinges on the good faith of the Arabs and the Israelis and on further action by the Security Council.

An Israeli war correspondent reported from the Syrian front that there was no change in that sector when the cease-fire deadline came.

Both sides reported heavy fighting before the deadline and Israel claimed it seized a strategic artillery position in hand-to-hand combat on Mt. Hermon, the mountain hunching over the Golan Heights tank battleground.

Cairo and Tel Aviv announced they had handed down orders to their commanders to hold their fire unless fired upon along the Suez Canal front that has been bitterly contested since Oct. 6. The guns were to fall silent at 6:50 p.m., Middle East time — 12:50 p.m. EDT.

Both sides made their acceptance of the cease-fire conditional on scrupulous observance by the other side, however, and the reports of continuing shelling underscored the difficulties of an immediate halt to the war after 17 days of heavy tank, infantry and aerial combat.

The truce was jointly proposed by the Soviet Union and the United States, the superpowers backing the warring parties. It was voted in the Security Council early Monday after an agreement worked out in Moscow over the weekend by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and Soviet Communist party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev.

Kissinger stopped in Israel briefly Monday on his way home from Moscow to confer with Premier Golda Meir and other Israeli leaders, presumably to fill them in on the subsequent steps intended in his accord with Brezhnev.

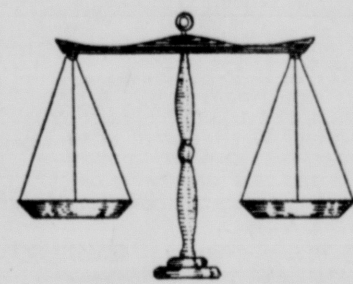

The top U.S. diplomat, again playing the negotiating role that won him a share of the 1973 Nobel Peace Prize, flew to London for a stopover there on his way back to Washington.

The U.S. Defense Department said in Washington that the American airlift of war supplies to Israel was continuing without pause for the time being, despite the cease-fire.

Renewal Of Mideast War Dangerous For Tourists

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

It was Saturday, Oct. 6.

The Rev. C. Rex Bevins, pastor of Warren United Methodist Church, his wife Ardis and eight Lincoln area residents were enjoying the eighth day of a cruise with about 270 Midwesterners in the Middle East.

They had no idea that in a few hours, their lives would be in danger as terror swept in the wake of a renewed war.

The Greek ship "Fiesta" docked at Beirut Harbor in Lebanon, one of their stops tracing the missionary journey of the Apostle Paul en route to the Holy Land.

Rev. Bevins and the group boarded seven buses and drove into Beirut, through Baalbek and on toward Damascus.

"We had no idea at that time that hostilities had broken out between Syria, Israel and Egypt," Bevins recalled.

He was in the lead bus as the entourage crossed into Syria from Lebanon.

"Our bus was cleared through the last check point," he said, when "the driver went back to check on some formalities."

Something was wrong. "The climate apparently changed just that quickly," Bevins said. "They said we had 10 minutes to get out of the country."

"I could tell by the fear on the faces of the driver and the guide that something was going to break."

Then, he said, a heated argument ensued between the guide and the Syrian authorities about the buses' exit.

Meanwhile, he recalled that he'd noticed "the closer we got to the border, the more you could observe very strict military procedures."

"Tanks were present with their guns leveled at the buses and cars entering. There was a sense of tightness, it was strained," he said.

As they were allowed to leave the last check point, "We saw some planes up above us," Bevins said, "and saw the Israelis shoot down a Syrian jet about a half-mile from us in a little town that we had to go through."

The plane crash caused traffic congestion, he said, and as they drove through, "You could also sense an anti-American feeling — that's the impression you have when you get into Arab countries."

"There were some shaking their fists at us on the bus," he said, noting that none of the passengers were allowed to open windows or leave the bus.

When they arrived back in Beirut, "We still didn't really know what happened," Bevins said.

The group stopped for refreshments at a shop and he said the shopkeeper shouted to their guide, "We won! We won!"

It was then, he said, that someone drew him aside, told him hostilities had broken out, and that the shopkeeper was elated at the news Egypt had crossed the Suez Canal into Israeli-occupied territory.

"He considered this a great military victory," Bevins said.

When the buses drove by the American Embassy, he said he noticed it was "closed up very tightly" and sandbags were piled around it.

Once they returned to the ship, Bevins said he observed frogmen enter the water and swim toward the Fiesta. "I had the feeling that maybe the ship would be blown up."

He reported the incident to the Greek crew, who assured him they had hired the frogmen "to protect the ship from being blown up by possibly Lebanese or Palestinian guerrillas."

Later, Bevins said, he got another scare when a gunboat floated alongside, but again learned it had been posted there for the Fiesta's protection.

Finally, the ship sailed out of Beirut Harbor, he said, "without lights, and we sailed all night without lights" so the Fiesta would not provide a target.

The Fiesta headed for Cyprus, but was turned away, Bevins said, because an attempt had been made to assassinate the president of Cyprus.

The ordeal ended finally in Crete, where Bevins was able to call the U.S. and notify relatives the group was safe.

Man Is Held In Abduction Of Little Girl

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Beatrice — A 20-year-old Beatrice man was being questioned early Tuesday in connection with the abduction of a five-year-old girl as she returned to school here Monday afternoon.

Gage County Attorney Ronald Sutter said the girl was found about 4 p.m. west of Crete and that there was "evidence she had been sexually molested." She was treated for injuries at Crete

Community Hospital and released Monday night.

Sutter said preliminary investigation indicated the child and another girl had been picked up by a man offering them a ride to school. The second girl was then dropped off at the school.

He said charges probably would be filed against the suspect Tuesday, charging either kidnapping or child stealing. The exact nature of the charges will depend somewhat upon medical findings.

According to police reports, the victim was discovered by a farmer at a roadside near the Swingle Rendering Plant, about a mile west of Crete on Highway 33.

The suspect was apprehended in Milford late Monday following a search by State Patrolmen, and officers of the Gage and Saline County Sheriff's departments and the Beatrice Police Department. Officials said the suspect offered no resistance.

Balloonist Drifts Down To Kansas

SMITH CENTER, Kan. (AP)—Cross-country balloonist Malcolm Forbes set his hot-air craft down Monday evening approximately eight miles east of the geographical center of the continental United States.

Forbes, traveling from Coos Bay, Ore., to the New Jersey coast, left North Platte, Neb., Monday morning and had intended to land at Grand Island, Neb., but his balloon drifted to the south.

It came down on the Melvin Shipley farm 4½ miles west of the town of Ebson, just below the Nebraska border south of Red Cloud.

The 54-year-old Forbes resumed his trip Monday after taking the weekend off for a business trip to New York.

Forbes set an official distance record last Wednesday when his balloon soared 213 miles from Casper, Wyo., to Gurley, Neb.

When he took off Thursday, the balloon dipped down hard and slammed into five parked autos before getting airborne.

Forbes said he would pay for the damages. The takeoff was delayed several hours to repair a tear in the balloon.

Monday, it was reported, he established an endurance record for his balloon's class of 13 hours and 5 minutes aloft, eclipsing the old mark of 11 hours 14 minutes.

Forbes, editor of Forbes Magazine, left Coos Bay Oct. 4 and expects to complete the transcontinental trip to New Jersey in mid-November.

3 Boys Charged In Death By Fire

MIAMI (AP) — Police said three boys — two aged 13 and one 12 — were charged with first-degree murder Monday in the death of a homeless derelict who was sprinkled with lighter fluid and set afire.

Officers said the children, whose names were withheld, also were charged with two counts of assault with intent to commit murder for allegedly setting fire to two other men in an alley behind an abandoned building Saturday night.

"The boys said it was kind of a spontaneous thing," a police spokesman said. "They had four cans of lighter fluid they bought and stole at a local market."

N.Y. Times: Agnew

Asked To Resign Last Month

(c) New York Times News Service
Washington — President Nixon requested Vice President Agnew's resignation in early September, according to an extensive New York Times inquiry. The vice president consented, but bargained for a guarantee that he would not go to prison. Atty. Gen. Elliot Richardson encouraged the bargaining because he feared Agnew might ascend, somehow, to the presidency.

Egypt Accepts U.N. Proposal

Cairo — The Egyptian government accepted the United Nations cease-fire proposal on condition that Israel simultaneously adhere to the Security Council's resolution. In order to abide by the resolution, in the Egyptian view, Israel must begin immediate withdrawal not only from her present positions along the Suez, but also withdraw from territories Israel has occupied since the 1967 Six-Day War.

Renowned Cellist, Casals, Dies

Rio Piedras, P.R. — Pablo Casals, the world renowned cellist and conductor, died Monday, three weeks after suffering a heart attack. For the last 17 years the 96 year old, Spanish-born musician had lived in Puerto Rico. Receiving the United Nations peace medal two years ago, Casals was hailed as a man who had devoted his "life to truth, to beauty and to peace."

Pipeline Bill Amended

Washington — The Alaska pipeline bill has been amended by the House-Senate Conference Committee, according to administration officials, and in doing so, could result in large increases in the prices of heating oil and gasoline. The officials contend that the exemption of small oil wells would actually nullify price controls over crude oil.

Impeachment Possibilities To Be Eyed

Washington — Democratic leaders of the House of Representatives agreed to have the House Judiciary Committee begin an inquiry into the possibilities of impeaching President Nixon. The Democratic leaders were said to favor a preliminary inquiry on whether there have been any offenses, rather than "any sudden demand" for immediate impeachment proceedings. (More on Page 1.)

Law School Deans Sign Petition

Washington — Leaders of America's legal profession, including the deans of 17 law schools ranging from Harvard to the University of Tennessee, signed a petition asking Congress to create a special committee to "consider the necessity" of impeaching President Nixon. The petition also calls for Congress to create an independent Watergate prosecution office.

Labor Leaders Urge Resignation

Bal Harbour, Fla. — Without a single dissenting voice, nearly 900 delegates to the AFL-CIO convention in Miami approved a statement calling for Nixon's resignation for the good of the country, and his impeachment if he did not step down. The resolution also asked that Congress stay consideration of Nixon's vice presidential designate, House Minority Leader Gerald R. Ford.

Future Is Uncertain For ITT, Milk Price, Rebozo, Ellsberg Probes

By MICHAEL PUTZEL
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's firing of Archibald Cox blocked, at least temporarily, the search for White House records that could prove vital to non-Watergate investigations including the ITT and milk-price cases.

Dissolution of the special prosecutor's office also leaves an uncertain future for probes into a $100,000 contribution from billionaire Howard Hughes to Nixon's friend C. G. "Bebe" Rebozo, illegal corporate donations to the President's re-election campaign and alleged presidential involvement in the 1971 Ellsberg burglary.

White House spokesman Ronald L. Ziegler has promised that the Justice Department will carry out these investigations "with thoroughness and vigor" despite the sacking of Cox and departure of the department's two top officials.

Documents already disclosed by the Senate Watergate committee and other sources point to critical material apparently still locked in the basement of the Executive Office Building.

But the conditions Nixon set when he agreed to release some material from the Watergate tape recordings would cut off access to all White House Watergate and non-Watergate papers. The court order he has refused to comply with would have forced him to surrender documents as well as the more celebrated tapes.

Nixon directed Cox "to make no further attempts by judicial process to obtain tapes, notes or memoranda of presidential conversations." In return for the tape summary, he said, "it would be understood that there would be no further attempt by the special prosecutor to subpoena still more tapes or other presidential papers of a similar nature."

Cox said one of his chief reasons for rejecting the deal was the ban on further document-hunting.

Some of the papers he is known or believed to have wanted are:

—ITT: In a memorandum from then-special presidential counsel Charles W. Colson to then-presidential chief of staff H. R. Haldeman on March 30, 1972, Colson listed a series of memos he said could be damaging if they were discovered.

One from then domestic chief John D. Ehrlichman to then Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell on May 5, 1971, alluded to discussions with the President as to the "agreed upon ends" in the resolution of the International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. antitrust case, Colson said. Another went directly to the President.

Colson said all copies of the memo to Nixon were in safe hands, but there might be copies of the other which would contradict Senate testimony by Mitchell "and more importantly directly involve the President."

Another memo a few weeks later went to Haldeman with copies to Mitchell and others, Colson said, "setting forth the $400,000 arrangement with ITT." He said this memo would show that the Justice Department knew ITT planned to give money to the Republican National Convention before the department settled its antitrust case against the giant conglomerate, a point vehemently denied at the time.

Other memos cited by Colson refer to intervention in the case by high-level officials including former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, former Treasury Secretary John B. Connally and former Commerce Secretary Peter G. Peterson.

The still-secret documents could decide the question of whether a conspiracy existed between ITT executives and government officials to settle the corporation's antitrust problems in exchange for a big campaign contribution.

—MILK FUND: The milk producers lobby sent Nixon a letter on Dec. 16, 1971, discussing the industry's problems with price controls and mentioning it was about to start contributing $2 million to the President's re-election campaign, according to investigative sources.

Three months later, on March 23, 1971, Nixon met personally at the White House with more than a dozen dairy industry lobbyists. Also present was the then-secretary of agriculture, Clifford Hardin. Two days after the meeting Hardin reversed an earlier decision and announced an increase in federal milk price supports of 27 cents a hundredweight, estimated to be worth as much as $700 million in added income to dairymen.

A day before the White House meeting, secret contributions began to flow into a flock of dummy campaign committees and from there into the Nixon campaign.

On Feb. 1, 1972, Haldeman aide Gordon Strachan referred to the $2 million figure in a letter to his boss telling Haldeman that the President's personal attorney, Herbert W. Kalmbach, believed the dairy lobbyists "will deliver" but had cut the original $2 million commitment to $1 million.

Cox also was investigating:

Kennedy Suggests Cox 'Too Hot On Trail'

Washington (UPI) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., suggested Monday that Archibald Cox may have been fired as special Watergate prosecutor because he was "too hot on the White House trail."

Kennedy said evidence was "now beginning to accumulate that Mr. Cox may have been fired for reasons that originally had nothing to do with the tapes, and that the tapes compromise was a sham, a pretext to fire the special prosecutor, because Archibald Cox was too hot on the White House trail."

In a statement, Kennedy said he hoped that the Senate Judiciary Committee, when it meets Wednesday, will begin an immediate investigation and call Cox as the first witness.

"The chain of implications raised by the disturbing reports now circulating is obvious," Kennedy said.

He added that the committee should determine whether Nixon decided to fire Cox before the tapes compromise was initiated; whether Cox was dismissed out of fear of the Watergate probe; whether the central concern was not the tapes but the memorandum and other documents that Cox was seeking; whether the compromise was a take-it-or-leave-it affair used as pretext to fire Cox; and whether the Senate Watergate Committee was used to give credibility to the compromise.

friends and Florida neighbor, Rebozo. Why Hughes gave it, why the money went to Rebozo, whether it was for Nixon or for his campaign and whether the President knew about a Hughes-Rebozo connection all are questions without final answers.

The White House has said the money was a potential campaign contribution, Nixon didn't know about it until earlier this year and the money was given back.

—CONTRIBUTIONS: Cox obtained guilty pleas from three corporations and two executives who made illegal corporate campaign contributions. Four other firms admitted similar donations. But the prosecutor was still trying to determine whether extortion was used to get campaign funds from companies that had sensitive dealings with the government.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

Forecast For Tuesday

The determination of Taurus is remarkable. These persons will stick, will overcome odds, will come back, will get up from the floor and persist until opposition is finally overcome. A setback for Taurus can be a blessing in disguise. Having to plow back is a tonic for these natives. It is not that Taurus enjoys adversity. Quite the contrary. Taurus loves luxury and easily becomes accustomed to expensive habits. However, this individual seems to have a private antenna which takes a reading, gives a sounding, provides a position and enables Taurus to fight back and finally to stand in a glow of achievement. Famous examples are numerous. Here are a few: Joe Louis, Ken Venturi, Pancho Gonzales, John Unitas and Brooks Robinson.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Look to future rather than attempting to hang on to past. Libra person could play key role. Finish rather than begin — improve relations with co-workers, those who serve you. Aggressive individual is vying for attention. Know it and react accordingly.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): What seems a dead end may be only a temporary stop along the way. Leo, Aquarius persons could be involved. Accent is on basic tasks, new ways of gaining momentum. Those who aided in past may now need help themselves.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Give logic equal time with impulse. You may see clearly in some areas but could be victim of wishful thinking on financial level. Don't give up something of value for a mere whim. Heed words of one who serves you in past.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Highlight versatility. Refuse to be pushed, cornered, restricted. Age does not necessarily equate with wisdom. Know it and speak your own mind. Message will become increasingly clear. Property value is subject to argument.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Obtain valid hint from Cancer message. Check details, apparent minor points. Relatives are entitled to their views — but you have life of your own to live. Aquarius, Scorpio persons could play important roles.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Be analytical. Friend who is gloomy may be trying to tell you something. Whatever you do, avoid mixing money and friendship — or you might lose both. Gemini is likely to be in picture. Protect valuables.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Change is beneficial. Give and you also will receive. This applies especially now to relations with family. Cycle is such that you have no need for ego nourishment. You know. You feel fulfilled. You are assured. Make concession and you will gain plenty.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Much that occurs has aura of mystery, romanticism. Key now is to be subtle. Avoid being aggressive in manner which creates tension. Work behind the scenes. Express understanding for one close to you who complains of pain, emotional stress.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You have more strength on your side than might be apparent. There is no need for you to be cowed, frightened, shoved or chided. One who pulls financial strings will not forget. You are going to be vindicated in poetic fashion.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): What you thought suited you may suddenly become outmoded. Now be careful and mature. Applies to personal and professional areas. You need not become a prisoner of your own emotions. You can and should be free. Allow yourself a choice.

EVENTS

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

The situation in Washington has become so incredible as to defy orderly thought and a logical conclusion and the repercussions of it all could become astronomical. If President Nixon, in defying the courts and firing key personnel in the Justice Department and the special Watergate prosecuting team, attempted to return the nation to normal, he made the monumental blunder of his years in office.

What he has done is to complicate the situation beyond the understanding of the average citizen, place himself in jeopardy of impeachment, heightened suspicion of his own guilt in Watergate and created a political climate that is explosive and divisive.

Technically, Nixon now stands in contempt of court, although no one knows whether the court will so hold him or not. No one knows now whether the court will even pursue the question any further.

By firing Special Watergate Prosecutor Archibald Cox, Nixon has left the Watergate case without a plaintiff, so to speak. He has said he will move the investigation into the Justice Department but it would not then be the same kind of thing.

To begin with, the case would then be prosecuted as Nixon wants it prosecuted. That may or may not result in a proper legal pursuit of the issues but it certainly destroys the government's credibility.

Even prior to this past weekend, the public attitude has been skeptical toward the President. Many people are suspicious that he had an active role in the Watergate break-in and subsequent cover-up and obstruction of justice. He has now poured fuel upon the fire of those suspicions.

That alone will create far more disunity and apprehension in the nation than has been the case to date. Beyond this, the situation as between Congress and the President has gone from bad to critical.

Past talk of impeachment that has been nothing but talk is now serious. Whether impeachment proceedings will actually be brought or not now hinges on two things — the strength of the grounds for such action and the ultimate effects upon the nation of such action.

Impeachment, rightly or wrongly, swings on both legal and political considerations. No doubt there will be some members of the House and Senate who feel that impeachment action is legally justified but politically imprudent.

On the other hand, there is serious question now as to the ability of the President to govern the nation. Surely, there is no way that the administration can now proceed with the Watergate prosecution to the satisfaction of the general public.

It is questionable that, short of impeachment, the constitutional issues that now stand before the nation can be resolved. Nixon has set the presidency above the law and courts of the land. Is this the kind of precedent we want established for the future of the nation?

If the presidency is above the law, then how far are we from a dictatorship? And it is the criminal law that we are talking about, not just civil action.

We believe that the President has failed completely in his expressed efforts to bring the nation back on a course of unity and purpose. In his stand on the tapes, he has sought to uphold a principle of privilege whose priority cannot match in importance the destruction it has wrought.

He has now endangered even what otherwise would have been a relatively easy confirmation of his choice of Gerald Ford as vice president. And he has now placed the members of the Republican party squarely on line as a part of the Watergate affair or independent of it, depending upon the stance they now take.

PHYLLIS BATTELLE

Watch Your Beau And The Ties, Too

NEW YORK — "Never trust a man in a bow-tie" is an old saying that dates back to the 1920s when bill collectors, traveling salesmen, and vintners of bathtub brews went around with butterflies clutched at their throats.

Well today, if you believe that saying, you'll distrust up to 20% of the adult male population in the U.S.

Yes, friends, it seems that tens of thousands of American men are currently sticking their chins out — over bows. They call them "butterfly bows" now, and the extend as wide as five inches — making this a large trend indeed.

Though the bow is selling in spectacular numbers all around the country, it is biggest in the Middle West. In some areas, it has grabbed off 25 to 30% of the total neckwear market.

"The butterfly bowtie boom has just begun. It hasn't reached all levels of the male market. We've stocked enough bows for winter to avoid some of the big shortages and reorder problems, we had last spring," reports the executive v.p. of May Merchandising Corp. Says the menswear merchandising manager for The Hecht Co., Baltimore, "Earlier this year we couldn't stock enough, even after reordering several times and we expect more big demand this fall." Famous-Barr Co., St. Louis, predicts "huge call for butterfly bows — hope we can keep up."

I can vouch for that. My Dad received a wild green butterfly tie for his 85th birthday. At first he laughed. Now he's wearing it.

What's it all about? About a quarter-billion dollars for those stylists who are up to their necks — and way out from there — in new-found riches.

Like the bow tie, the game of backgammon is making a startling, surging comeback in our nostalgia-dripping society. Though it is centuries old, more people are playing it now than ever before in history.

And if we can believe the world's champion backgammon player, Tim Holland, it is the one game that women's libbers will never be able to use to their advantage to prove women's equality.

"A Bobby Riggs of backgammon would inevitably beat a Billie Jean King," says Holland, "because this is a game that requires a 'killer instinct' — which men have, but women do not."

Holland said this with a straight face.

On October 21 in Central Park, New York City will observe "Backgammon Day" during which Tim Holland will demonstrate the art of it all.

Holland, who regularly plays with backgammon fans such as David Niven and Burt Lancaster, and who teaches the game to the likes of N. Y. Knicks superstar Bill Bradley and golf pro Doug Sanders, says that anyone with a good mind can learn to play a "reasonable game" in three weeks of daily lessons.

To play a good game — well, that's something else. It takes much more time. And a masculine mind.

There is not one woman among the top 50 players in this country. And "probably never will be."

Maybe it should be called Piggammon.

'You Got All The Bags, Bebe?'

Now Comes The Hard Part

The cease-fire in the latest Arab-Israeli war was brought about by the persuasive arguments of the United States and the Soviet Union and by the action of the United Nations Security Council in giving the cease-fire proposal an appropriate and acceptable form.

Had Premier Kosygin not used his influence on President Sadat of Egypt, had Secretary of State Kissinger and Chairman Brezhnev not agreed in Moscow and Kissinger not sought Premier Meir's consent in Tel Aviv, had the two superpowers not urged Security Council action, the fighting in all likelihood would have continued indefinitely. The talks for both sides were enormous.

So, the big powers can take credit for putting the lid on a raging war. And their agreement takes on added significance because it is the first concrete accommodation reached between the U.S. and the U.S.S.R. on a truly important question that the world currently has to live with.

There can be little doubt that the superpowers also had self-serving interests in mind when they agreed to throw their combined weight in favor of ending the fighting. With the battle field momentum swinging to the side of Israel's forces, the Soviets obviously would have little stomach for the kind of rescue operation it would have taken to stem the Israeli tide. The U.S. probably was equally reluctant to underwrite the Israeli conquest of additional Arab territories.

For a number of very good reasons, then, the big powers interceded. And arranging the cease-fire will be by far the easiest part of bringing peace to the Middle East.

The Paris talks on peace in Vietnam were difficult enough to get started; forcing the Arabs and the Israelis to the conference table with any reasonable hopes of coming up with a mutually acceptable settlement will be even more difficult.

The Israelis will not want to give up one inch of the territories they took in 1967 and which they now control unless they can get the signatures of Arab leaders on a permanent peace treaty and until the Arabs grant Israel's right to survive as a nation.

While encouraging the warring parties toward compromise and while helping to create a conducive atmosphere, the U.S. and the Soviet Union will also want to resist the impulse to re-arm their client states to the teeth in preparation for yet another war.

The hardest part is yet to come.

Inability To Expedite

Bids for constructing the off-again, on-again state office building will be let next spring with completion scheduled for sometime in 1976, the State Building Commission said last week.

Final plans for the structure have not yet received their finishing touches, which seems somewhat extraordinary, because a set of plans has been accumulating dust since a prior authorization by the Legislature way back when. It shouldn't take much time to revise those plans to fit the latest legislative mandate. At any rate, at this point it looks as if the state office building will be ready for occupancy a long ten years after the Centennial office building was first envisioned.

A similar tale of government's inability to expedite concerns the building directory at the County-City Building. Since the building opened in 1969, people have had difficulty in finding the office they were looking for.

A consultant was called in to solve the problem and the County-City Building Committee now says that an information desk will be set up with trained personnel and rooms in the building will be given new designations as part of a total information system designed to assist the public in locating county and city offices and services.

The improved system for telling people how to find the county assessor's office, or the city attorney or the mayor will be ready next March — some five years after the building was opened and what seems like two years since local authorities decided to do something about the problem.

Hopefully we will not encounter problems of a more difficult nature.

TOM WICKER

Impeachment With Honor

Washington — On Sunday, Oct. 14, the American Civil Liberties Union inserted a full-page ad in the New York Times, detailing "why it is necessary" to impeach President Nixon and "how it can be done." Four days later, from that ad alone, the A.C.L.U. had received 873 pieces of mail, 810 of them favorable to impeachment, 751 volunteering services in the cause, and 410 containing contributions totalling $10,835.25.

All this was before Nixon precipitated the current crisis of the tapes, the courts and the Justice Department — a crisis that increases by tenfold the chance that the President actually will be impeached. But the New York response alone was sufficient to convert a prime sponsor of the impeachment project — Charles Morgan, director of the A.C.L.U. national office here — from his ordinary volubility into something resembling a volcanic flow of ideas, plans, energy, motion, action and — naturally — words.

Being subjected to Chuck Morgan in full cry and the heat of combat is rather like being pummeled in a corner by a lawyerish version of the young Muhammad Ali.

No doubt the A.C.L.U. campaign to impeach Nixon still may seem quixotic to some; presidents have asserted and been granted for so long a stance beyond mortality. But as outlined in the unquenchable Morgan manner, the A.C.L.U. approach has considerable plausibility.

First, the legal case undoubtedly is there. The A.C.L.U.'s "resolution on impeachment" details this administration's "massive invasions of the First Amendment rights" of Americans — approval of the Huston plan to combat domestic subversion by illegal means, the illicit use of electronic surveillance, the establishment of a "personal secret police" in the White House, the burglaries of the Democratic National Committee and of a psychiatrist's office and the subsequent cover-up of both, and the perversion of such agencies as the F.B.I., the C.I.A. and the Secret Service.

As to Nixon's personal involvement, A.C.L.U. literature points out that in the First Congress, James Madison — "The Father of the Constitution" — said of officials appointed by the president that he was "in a peculiar manner, responsible for their conduct, and subject to impeachment himself, if he suffers them to perpetrate with impunity high crimes or misdemeanors against the United States, or neglects to superintend their conduct, so as to check their excesses."

Second, the A.C.L.U. campaign is designed to take the taint off the word, "impeach." Generations of school children have been taught that the impeachment of President Andrew Johnson was an unfair political power play, and many Americans associate the idea of impeachment with that kind of politics.

The A.C.L.U.'s insistence, however, is not on the removal of Nixon from office, but that he should be brought to fair and impartial trial in a constitutional manner on specific charges. That is all that an impeachment, which in the American system must be voted by the House of Representatives, accomplishes; removal from office would result only if the Senate, sitting as a court, found Nixon guilty as charged.

Third, Chuck Morgan and his associates understand that, whether or not there is a legal case against Nixon, impeachment is a political question. The House probably will not vote to impeach until a majority of its members are

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

To Your Good Health

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it permissible for me to drink pure carrot juice which I prepare in my juicer, and, if so, please let me know if six or eight ounces of the juice is too much for me to consume each day. I like carrot juice very much but do not want to consume too much. I also take celery juice, orange juice, etc., but it is the carrot juice I have been told is dangerous when taken in large quantities. Is this correct? — Mrs. N. G.

That's too much carrot juice, too much carrots in any form. The arithmetic is simple.

Whole carrots contain about 11,000 units of vitamin A for each three ounces. Since you speak of pure carrot juice, I assume that it is just that. If water were added, the vitamin A (carotene) content would be considerably less.

The pure juice you are drinking daily would contain about 33,000 units of carotene. If you have been consuming this much over any extended period, you should by now be noticing a yellowing of the palms. This is not any great problem of itself, but it can indicate an excessive intake of Vitamin A which the system cannot dispose of.

Excessive Vitamin A can cause skin, hair, bone and liver disorders. I suggest you cut down either your daily intake or decide on a few carrotless days each week.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have two cataracts developing, but everyone says to forget about them. Must I wear glasses if I have them operated on? My vision is 20/25 and 20/50 and I wear glasses only for reading or close work. — Mrs. M. M.

The advice to "forget about them" isn't too bad, because there is nothing you can do to change things. Cataracts as a rule develop quite slowly. When or if your vision becomes too dim, the cataracts can be removed — nearly half a million people a year have it done.

You will need glasses after the operation, because the lenses of the eyes have to be removed, and you need glasses to make up for them. However, contact lenses have reached a fine stage of development and are in much use after cataract operations.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband who is 83 has started to take 12 aspirin tablets every day to relieve the pain in his leg — his knee and ankle are all swelled up. I'm afraid he is taking too many. Please let us know if he is doing wrong. — Mrs. W. M.

Many arthritis sufferers take that much aspirin and even more every day and benefit from it. However — and this may be an important "however" — I would want to know what causes the pain and swelling of his leg before agreeing that aspirin is the right thing for him.

You give me no information as to what his trouble is, aside from its being painful. It may be some condition that not only can be treated effectively by other means but ought to be.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What do the letters SLE stand for? — Mrs. G.O.H.

The letters mean 'systemic lupus erythematosus (air-theme-a-TOE-sus).

I have recently received a copy of an excellent leaflet on SLE produced by the Arthritis Foundation which will be glad to send you a copy. The following address is only for those who specifically want this leaflet:

The Arthritis Foundation, GPO

Box 2525, New York, N.Y. 10001.

Lupus is one of the collagen diseases, affecting connective tissue, which makes it, from a medical standpoint, related to arthritis. This is why the foundation is interested in studying it and providing information about it. There is no charge for the leaflet.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have been told I have a double gall bladder. Have been told it is functioning well and not to worry about it. Is this possible? I never heard of it. — Mrs. B. B.

It's possible you have it. You haven't heard about it because it is a very rare anomaly. As you were told, don't worry about it.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it possible for a person to live normally with alkalosis? — A. R.

I think you have a wrong notion of what alkalosis is all about. It is not a chronic disorder but one caused by some acute chemical imbalance in the system.

The word itself means an increased alkalinity level of the blood and tissues usually caused by an increased alkaline intake or a sudden loss of acid from the system. (The blood is normally slightly alkaline.)

Once an imbalance is detected, the cause can usually be found and the proper balance restored and normal life resumed.

Alkalosis is associated with other disorders that cause similar symptoms.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Runtz, Humm

Lincoln, Neb.
After five Nebraska football games, I have held back my anger as long as I can.

When Steve Runtz threw interceptions after moving the ball against North Carolina State, Osborne pulled him at the end of the first quarter. Then Dave Humm came in and, I'll admit, won the game.

But since then, Humm hasn't played the same, except against Minnesota. In these three games after North Carolina State, Runtz has played only about a half-quarter against Minnesota and a total of four plays against Wisconsin, which we barely won, and Missouri, which we lost.

When we played Wisconsin, Humm's performance through the first 54 minutes was worse than Runtz's performance against North Carolina State. Humm couldn't even move the ball and he threw as many interceptions as Runtz did, but still Runtz sat on the bench, except for two plays just before the fourth quarter. Then, when Humm did start moving, it was really too late, even though we did win.

Sense Of Direction

Lincoln, Neb.
To me it is very obvious that the general public is deeply concerned about current problems facing our nation. Recently I attended briefings in our nation's Capitol, the White House and in Fellowship House in Washington, D. C. Participants in these briefings included persons involved in the U. S. Senate and House Prayer Breakfast groups, the annual National Prayer Breakfast, as well as others who share a spiritual concern and who meet in small groups in the spirit of Christ.

In my opinion, the following expressions from only a few in leadership positions should help to give us a reasonable sense of direction for the days ahead:

From Ken White: "Harriet and I have just finished our first year in our home in Washington, D. C. so some people think we should have all the answers to Watergate and like problems here. As we travel the U.S.A., people ask a lot of questions about Watergate, but we feel less informed on many questions than those living away from Washington. However, we are convinced through reading and listening that God has given sovereignty to the people, not to the government, not to the Democrats nor to the Republicans, but to 'we, the people.' The Constitution of the United States of North America states that it came only from people. God expects us to govern ourselves. If we delegate our spiritual responsibilities, we forfeit our sovereignty. Just how serious and concerned are 'we, the people?'"

From Richard Halverson: "If persuaded that impeachment is the political will of the country. The A.C.L.U. effort, therefore, is not to be concentrated only on members of the House, but also on the back-home constituencies to which members of Congress are necessarily sensitive. Morgan hopes to raise a half-million dollars or more to carry on the impeachment campaign. This general strategy, moreover, is charged with a specific political fuel that Chuck Morgan thinks may ultimately make all the difference. He believes the widespread political cynicism that every poll suggests has infected the public since the Watergate disclosures does not stop with Nixon and the Watergate culprits — that the view is not general that "all politicians are alike" and "they all do it but only a few get caught." That is the dangerous public attitude, he believes, that members of the House will discover when they run for reelection in 1974.

How can each prove that he or she is different from "ordinary politicians"? As Chuck Morgan sees it, just enough of them might vote to impeach the President, in order to assert their own independence and integrity. Maybe they might, at that.

Against Missouri, Humm was again unable to get the job done until the final two minutes and that's too late against any team — especially against a team like Missouri.

Still, Osborne kept Runtz on the bench, except for two plays midway through the third quarter.

In my opinion, Runtz is the far better quarterback. He is an excellent runner and can scramble. As for his passing, I feel his percentage speaks for itself. As for Humm, all you can say is that he's a very good passer.

I think it's about time Osborne changed. If he's going to pull Runtz after one quarter when he's having trouble, the same should be done with Humm!

As long as Osborne refuses to put Runtz in when Humm is having a bad day, we will continue to lose games.

ANGRY HUSKER FAN

Team's Return

Lincoln, Neb.

This is in answer to the Husker booster who complained about lack of people at the airport to welcome the Huskers home from away games. Obviously he wasn't at the airport the previous week, as 50 would have been stretching it to cover the people there then. I have driven out to the airport many, many times to welcome the team back and also am sorry that so few people take the trouble to say thanks in this special way.

However, I really don't believe we are wanted. Try to find out what time the team is returning! We used to get continual encouragement from the radio stations to go out and welcome the team. The night we went out to welcome the team from Minnesota, I tried to find out in the terminal where they were landing. Frontier informed me it was a United flight. United was nowhere in sight and repeated ringing of the bell brought no results. The "Rent-A-Car" people informed me that since it was a chartered flight, it would land to the north of the terminal. Thank heavens, I followed my instincts and went south instead.

To tell the truth, the landing of the plane and unloading of same happen so fast that 20 seconds just about covers it. The players and coaches scatter so fast that it is all over within a minute, and to tell the truth, for many it is very uninspiring.

I really have no answer as to how to make it more worthwhile for fans and players alike, but a good start would be to make the fans a little more welcome by airport officials and perhaps a permanent landing spot so fans would know where to gather. A little more push from the news media would also be helpful.

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Couple Finds Happiness In Solitude

By ROBERT PETERSON

Many older people complain of inactivity and loneliness. But others enjoy doing as little as possible and seem to revel in solitude and contemplation.

Here's a letter from a woman who says, "My husband and I are astonished at the foolishness we read on the subject of aging. Social workers and government experts seem to consider us as some strange, inept breed of animal which must be led around by the arm and for whom special amusements must be planned.

"I'm 65 and would no more join a golden age club than I would accompany an astronaut to the moon. My husband gets a company pension of about $3,000 a year and with this and our Social Security and savings we're completely, totally, and unequivocally content — without the aid of arts, crafts, clubs or senior citizen bus tours.

"Our life really began at 60 when we moved out of our city apartment to a tiny little house of our own in the suburbs that we bought free and clear with our savings. We have a porch to sit on, a street to look at with cars and people going by, and a shopping center within walking distance. These are hobbies enough.

"People think shut-ins are unhappy. But I've got a half-sister who still lives in a city apartment. She's a widow of 77 and while she's not sick, she deliberately chooses to be a shut-in. She only leaves her apartment maybe once a week for a brief stroll and even then can't wait to get back. She tells me she loves her life the way it is — taking care of herself, keeping her quarters neat, making her own clothes, watching television, and seeing only members of her family."

This woman's letter is a reminder that we're all different. Before assuming that all elders are vaguely unhappy, distressed at inactivity, and lonely for want of new contacts, let's note that some are totally independent and self-reliant and want nothing more than to be left alone.

Here's a letter from a woman who doesn't mind living alone, but who finds an extra dimension of pleasure from her hobby of making quilts.

"My husband and I struggled through the depression, raising 11 children," writes Mrs. Adelaide M. Martin of Wenonah, N.J. "After the children were all married we retired and found the home of our dreams at a very reasonable price. We had many happy, carefree years until my husband's death.

"Then I had a heart attack and thought it was the end, but my daughter nursed me back to health. To keep busy I took up my long-ago hobby of making patch-work quilts. I put a small ad in a hobby magazine offering my handmade quilts for sale. I sell to friends, get some orders in the mail, and get lots of lovely letters from fellow quilt-lovers.

"I live mostly on Social Security but my quilt sales provide the little luxuries that make life worthwhile. Many oldsters are happy without hobbies, but some elders need to keep their minds and hands occupied with crafts. If you can do anything, such as sew, paint, or make toys you may be able to find a small market for your products just as I have." Bravo Mrs. Martin.

Blocking Expenditures Practically Impossible

By The Associated Press

State Treasurer Wayne Swanson said Monday he would like to block payments out of certain revolving funds whose validity has been clouded by an attorney general's opinion, but is unable practically to do so.

Specifically, Swanson said he would refuse to sign warrants drawn on certain revolving or cash funds of the department of administrative services, University of Nebraska and game commission if he could identify them. But because of what he termed "co-mingling" of funds, these warrants cannot be identified as they pass through his office for signature.

"If I could stop it I would, but I don't see how I can do it," he said in an interview.

An attorney general's letter to state Sen. Terry Carpenter in August said there are "certain questionable areas" in the manner in which the state provides for and uses money from cash or revolving funds.

Some of the revolving funds from which the legislature authorizes expenditures lack a basis in law, Atty. Gen. A. H. Meyer's letter pointed out.

Meyer said he would be willing to work with Carpenter's legislative council executive board and the bill drafter in preparing corrective legislation if desired.

Swanson said there is need for the legislature to make its appropriations specific, so that expenditures from cash funds could not "be buried."

"There should be so much appropriated for this purpose and for that purpose and it should be specific," he said.

Donelson Named Deputy Clerk

Larry D. Donelson, 32, currently employed by a Lincoln bank, has been named deputy clerk of the Nebraska Supreme Court. Clerk George Turner reported Monday.

Donelson succeeds Michael R. Johnson, who resigned to enter private practice.

Donelson, formerly of Fullerton, is a 1967 graduate of the University of Nebraska Law College and has been an army officer. Since 1971 he has been assistant trust officer for the National Bank of Commerce Trust and Savings Association.

IF ALL YOU SEE ARE 3 GLASSES OF MILK... LOOK CLOSER.

YOU'RE REALLY SEEING 1/2 THE PROTEIN YOU SHOULD HAVE EVERYDAY.

Sure, you're looking at 3 glasses of milk. No one's trying to kid you about that. But there's a lot more to that milk than you might think. There's calcium, vitamins, minerals. But you probably knew that already. But milk's got even more for you. Because it's a food. It's got high-quality protein. And your body should get a good supply of protein each day. One glass gives you 19% of the protein you should have. Two glasses, 38%. And three glasses give you more than half the protein you should have each day. We're not trying to confuse you with statistics. We're just trying to show you that milk can be an important part of your daily diet. And at still about 10-12¢ a glass served at home, an important part of your budget. And that makes milk one of the lowest-priced sources of high-quality protein around. Today, every little bit of information helps. So, here's more about nature's most nearly perfect food, milk.

Spanish Cellist, Casals, 96, Dies

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — Pablo Casals, the world renowned cellist who used his musical genius as an instrument of protest against tyranny, died Monday at the age of 96. His 36-year-old wife Martita was at his bedside.

Casals entered Auxilio Mutuo Hospital three weeks ago after suffering a heart seizure. Doctors said he also suffered from chronic bronchitis, a kidney

48,151 Said Killed Since Cease-Fire

Saigon (UPI) — The Saigon command said Monday a total of 48,151 Vietnamese, including more than 10,000 government soldiers, have been killed since last Jan. 28, when peace in Vietnam was declared and the United States withdrew its troops.

The chances for peace here took another small step backward as South Vietnam walked out of a truce meeting with the Viet Cong because the Communist delegate spoke for more than his allotted half hour.

In Cambodia, the U.S. Embassy denied American servicemen were acting as combat advisers to Cambodian forces, although Charge D'Affaires Thomas Enders refused to say whether behind-the-lines advisory aid was being given.

The denial specifically covered only American advice to "operational units." U.S. military men in Cambodia have advised the Cambodians on organization of their forces and supply system since they first arrived in Cambodia in 1970.

In another development affecting the Americans, the U.S. Embassy said Monday it had borrowed 5,000 tons of its own rice from Vietnam to lend to Cambodia.

The number of South Vietnamese soldiers killed in action since the Jan. 28 so-called cease-fire reached 10,010 at noon Monday, spokesmen said. In addition, the government said 1,690 civilians have been killed since Jan. 28 and it claimed 36,451 Communists killed.

failure, high fever and circulatory ailments.

The world of music, which had acclaimed him the greatest cellist of his time, paid tribute to his memory.

Said Russia's Mstislav Rostropovich, considered the best cellist since Casals was in his prime:

"I have lost not only a great teacher but a true friend. I feel a great personal grief."

Eugene Ormandy, music director of the Philadelphia Orchestra, said:

"Pablo Casals was one of the greatest musicians of all time and the greatest cellist. He was a strong example of humanity at its finest and most vital. His love of people was probably the reason for his rich and long life. His passing is a tremendous loss to the world of music and a great personal loss to my wife and myself."

His 81-year-old brother Enrique, who arrived in Puerto Rico several days ago, said "music was a religion" for Casals.

Casals was born Dec. 29, 1876, in Vendrell, a town near Barcelona, Spain. He began playing a homemade cello at the age of 10, after becoming proficient on the piano, organ and violin.

He was playing before Spanish royalty by the time he reached the age of 15 and was an international concert artist, appearing as solo cellist for the Paris opera while still a teenager.

In the early 1930s he returned to Spain to conduct his own orchestra — a period which he called the happiest in his life.

But the Spanish civil war ended his idyll, and Casals, a fervent anti-Fascist, left his beloved native country and settled in France in opposition to the rightist government of Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

"At that time I vowed I would not play in those countries which recognized Franco Spain or in any other country where basic human freedoms are denied," Casals said later.

He relented on that vow to give a United Nations concert in 1958 and a White House appearance in 1961. Before his final illness, he made several public appearances in the United States and Europe.

Casals moved to Puerto Rico in 1955 at the suggestion of his prize pupil Martita Montanez. Three years later, at the age of 81, he married 20-year-old Martita.

Until he entered the hospital, Casals played the cello daily.

He explained his love for the instrument in this way:

"It is like a beautiful woman who has not grown older, but younger with time, more slender, more supple, more graceful."

Solid Waste Disposal Method Called 'A Joke'

Omaha (AP) — A group studying how to dispose of Nebraska's solid wastes was told that present methods are "a joke."

For example, said Don Olson of the Omaha-Douglas County Health Department, hundreds of acres of land in Omaha "aren't worth a dime" because of haphazard disposal of everything from trees to building rubble.

Olson was among about 60 persons attending a program in Omaha sponsored by the Governor's Council to Keep Nebraska Beautiful.

Participants discussed waste-disposal systems in operation across the nation, plus litter control laws.

Computer Errs; Police Pick Up Innocent Victim

North Platte (UPI) — Billy R. Dugard of North Platte was the innocent victim Sunday of a mistake in the National Crime Information Center (NCIC) computer in Washington.

Dugard was handcuffed, placed into a police cruiser and was taken to headquarters after a routine check with the NCIC indicated the license plates on his car were from a stolen car.

The NCIC check was made after Dugard had been involved in a minor traffic accident. He was later released when it was determined the plates had been issued legally and that the numbers should not have been in the NCIC computer.

Dugard said it marked the second time he had run into trouble because of the computer error.

Scottish Rite Masons Name Herbert Ronin

District Judge Herbert A. Ronin has been named the sovereign Grand Inspector General of the Nebraska Scottish Rite Masonry.

Ronin, a 33rd Degree Mason and Deputy of the Supreme Council of the Scottish Rite in Nebraska for the past two years, was named at the closing ceremony of the biennial session of the Scottish Rite for the Southern Jurisdiction.

According to Morris Siegel, secretary of the Nebraska Scottish Rite, Ronin will be one of 31 ruling members of the Supreme Council, which is the Mother Council of the World.

Ronin's new status, Diegel said, "gives him a degree of eminence few Scottish Rite Masons ever attain."

Watergate Tapes Compromise Appears 'Reasonable' — Thone

Congressman Charles Thone Monday said the Watergate tapes compromise announced by President Nixon last week "seems reasonable under the existing circumstance."

"At such time of national crisis and international crisis, we should all be able to reason together," the First District Republican said in a statement released in Lincoln.

As for the weekend firing of Archibald Cox and William French Smith and the resignation of Atty. Gen. Elliot Richardson, Thone said he needs "more direct source information" before he forms a judgment on the matter.

But Thone described the developments as "most disturbing."

Delivery Favored
The congressman said he has, "from the beginning," favored delivery of the Watergate tapes

Creature Found In Celery Patch

Marion, N.Y. (AP) — Experts say a prehistoric creature that met its death thousands of years ago in what is now John Pirrello's celery field was a mammoth.

Zoologist Edgar Reilly of the State Museum in Albany said he studied the bones found on the Wayne County farm and determined they came from the elephant-like creature.

McCollister Calls Ford 'An Excellent Choice'

Congressman John McCollister of Omaha said Gerald Ford was "an excellent choice" for vice president who is endowed with the qualities of leadership.

"I think the prime ingredients (of a leader) are integrity and character," the Second District Republican said in his weekly to Judge John Sirica.

But the compromise agreement, Thone said he understands, would provide the Ervin Committee, Judge Sirica and the public with verbatim transcripts of the contents of all Watergate-related tapes.

The accuracy, completeness and authenticity of the transcripts would be verified by Sen. John Stennis who, Thone said, is "a public official of unquestioned integrity."

Judge Sirica, he noted, had not ordered the tapes be turned over to Cox, but he delivered to the court for an evaluation as the relevancy and privilege.

Compromise 'Suggested'
"The Circuit Court of Appeals had itself suggested a compromise which would provide Judge Sirica with sufficient information to make his evaluation, short of the actual surrender of the tapes," Thone recalled.

"This, as I understand, was suggested in order to circumvent the constitutional confrontation that was sure to result from further court action."

"Richardson participated in the development of the compromise and, in fact, several major changes were made in the agreement at his request."

"Since the compromise proposal was reported to have had the approval of Richardson, and the bipartisan approval of House and Senate leadership, and seems to provide for the basic requirements of Judge Sirica, I want more information on the specifics of Mr. Cox's objections to the proposal and the real reason for Mr. Richardson's resignation."

Curtis: Now Is The Time To Keep Cool On Scandal

Washington (UPI) — Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., said Monday that "now is the time to keep cool and think clearly in reference to Watergate."

In a statement issued by his office, Curtis said, "the facts do not coincide with everything that the headline seekers would indicate."

According to the Nebraska, Archibald Cox "made a serious error in not going along with the arrangement" for Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., to listen to the tapes.

"This arrangement called for Sen. Stennis to have access to the total tapes, no summaries or excerpts," Curtis said.

He added that since Cox received an executive appointment and his legal status was that of an assistant to a cabinet officer, "the right of the President to remove him raises no legal or constitutional problems."

Curtis said Congress could have enacted a law setting up a "totally independent" prosecutor for the Watergate matter and recalled that this was done in the 1920s in connection with the Teapot Dome scandal.

"I understand that this was discussed in the Senate committee on the judiciary but a decision was made not to do so," Curtis said. "Instead a procedure was followed involving agreement and understandings."

"It seems to me that Mr. Cox ought to have respected the agreement entered into by Sen. Sam Ervin (D-N.C.), Sen. Howard Baker (R-Tenn.), and President Nixon and made an attempt to see what would develop following Sen. Stennis' report."

Bedfast Farmer's Milo Harvested By Neighbors

Lincoln Star Special
Stromsburg — Morace Warner's neighbors aren't about to let his tractor injury keep his 300 acres of milo go unharvested.

Several dozen of them turned up from all over the area Monday with some 40 combines and 65 trucks, responding to a call for help made on Warner's behalf by Mrs. Raymond Burke and Mr. and Mrs. Rolland Johnson.

Wives of the volunteers served them lunch in the Stromsburg Viking Center. Then the men dispersed and took care of Warner's five rented tracts of milo, scattered between Polk and Gresham, in about three hours.

Mrs. Burke credited elevator managers in Stromsburg, Shelby and Durant with expediting unloading the grain, enabling the volunteers to finish as quickly as possible. She also said local grocers donated coffee, napkins and cups, and Stromsburg women donated food for the lunch.

Warner was seriously injured in a tractor accident early in September. He was hospitalized at Lincoln General Hospital, and is now bedfast at home.

"You have questions about postal service. I want you to have the answers."

L.G. MOORE
SCF Manager/Postmaster
Lincoln, Nebraska

"How come you don't keep Post Offices open later?"

We keep your office open during the hours when most people use it. It just doesn't make any sense at all to keep the office open when almost nobody comes by.

Now there are some people who need postal services at off hours. That's why we've begun to use self-service centers—these are open 24 hours a day and can handle just about any postal need. Ask us for the location nearest you.

"Why don't you deliver earlier in the day?"

We'd like everyone to have their mail with the morning coffee. But, of course, some people have to be at the start of a mailman's route and others have to be at the end—and they wind up getting their mail later.

Our delivery routes are set up with this goal: To give you dependable service without wasting time or money.

"Why don't you make later pickups?"

The answer is our people are hard at other work. At night postal people sort the mail picked up through the afternoon. Otherwise, they couldn't get your mail on its way by the next day.

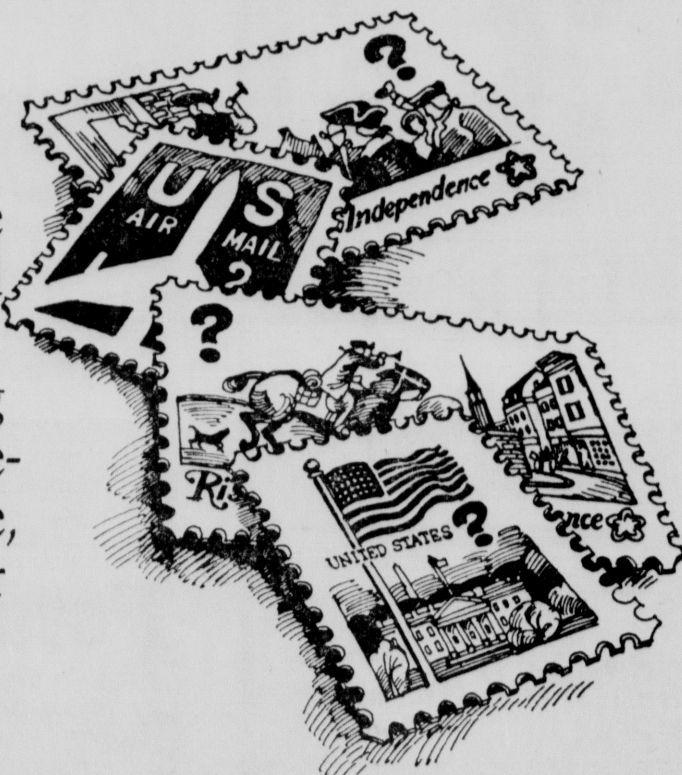

Another reason, there's hardly any mail in most boxes after our regular pickup. And we've stopped wasteful things like sending a truck to pick up one or two letters.

When you have an urgent letter, and it's late in the day, there are special "Star Boxes" that have evening pickups. We've put stickers on your regular mailbox that tell you where to find the nearest Star Box.

"How is the price of postage set?"

Your Postal Service makes no profit. It's set to be run at cost. The idea is that the price of a stamp should pay the costs of delivering the mail.

You want good mail service and, like everything else, that costs more than it used to. But the thing to remember is: whether you're sending a letter or a package, the price you pay depends on what it costs us to deliver your mail.

You have questions.
We want you to have the answers.

Kearney High School Wins Service Contest

Kearney High School was named overall winner of the statewide community service contest by the Nebraska High School Press Association (NHSPA) at its 42nd annual convention in Lincoln Monday.

R. Neale Copple, director of the University of Nebraska School of Journalism and NHSPA executive secretary, said about 800 students from 86 or 87 Nebraska High Schools attended the convention.

At the awards session Monday morning, Mrs. Jo Ann Blackledge of North Platte, NHSPA past president, recognized two high school journalism advisers who were named among the top 100 advisers in the nation by the Newspaper Fund, Inc.

They are Mrs. Beth Bohling of Superior, NHSPA vice president, and Miss Penny Wright of Kearney. The women won $250 and $100 respectively to spend on school media materials, Mrs. Blackledge said.

Dr. George Phillips, former journalism director of South Dakota State University, judged the 1973 NHSPA entries.

He complimented the students on their work, saying there was an "excellent array" of high school yearbooks.

Phillips also noted that high school newspapers are doing more depth reporting and interpretive reporting, and he lauded Copple's influence in that trend.

"I find some of this to be of the very highest order," Phillips said.

The Omaha World-Herald donated all trophies for the newspaper contest winners. Yearbook contest trophies were donated by KMTV, Omaha; the Scottsbluff Star-Herald, and the Omaha Sun newspapers.

"The state's media are solidly behind you," Copple told the high school journalists.

Following the awards presentation, the group spent the day in workshop sessions led by the UNL School of Journalism faculty, professional newsmen and journalism advisers.

Flood Relief Meetings Slated At Three Towns

Emergency meetings to discuss flood relief have been scheduled Tuesday and Wednesday in Beatrice, Hebron and Auburn, Assistant State Civil Defense Director Mike Matsukis reported late Monday.

The meetings follow the weekend action of President Nixon in declaring 12 southeast Nebraska counties a disaster area, thus making certain federal monies available for loans and grants.

The meeting schedule: Beatrice City auditorium, 10 a.m. Tuesday, for city and county officials of Gage County and the village of De Witt.

Hebron courthouse, 3 p.m. Tuesday, for county and city officials of Clay, Webster, Thayer, Jefferson, Saline and Nuckolls counties.

Auburn American Legion Hall, 10 a.m., Wednesday, for county and city officials of Nemaha, Otoe, Johnson, Pawnee and Richardson counties.

Additionally, a disaster assistance center opening at the Beatrice city auditorium Tuesday morning will provide information to private citizens in the 12-county area, according to Henry Molter, federal disaster assistance administration representative.

No-Fault Plan Urged

St. Louis (AP) — The federal government has been urged by the National Automobile Insurance Association to adopt guideline legislation for the development of a no-fault automobile insurance system across the country.

Burned Inmate Files Suit

Officials of the Nebraska Penal Complex were named defendants in a $100,000 suit filed in Lancaster District Court by an inmate in connection with burns received when another inmate ignited and threw lighter fluid.

Jesse Livingston, an inmate in the maximum security unit at the Penal Complex, alleges that on Oct. 20, 1969, he was being removed from his cell for the purpose of taking a shower when he was confronted by another inmate, James Byrd, who "had in his possession a styrofoam cup containing a flammable material" otherwise known as lighter fluid. Livingston contends that Byrd ignited the container and threw it on the person of the plaintiff resulting in severe burns to his body.

As a result of the incident, the plaintiff contends he has suffered 25% disability to his body and the extension of his left elbow has been limited to approximately 20 degrees.

The plaintiff alleges that the incident resulted from negligence on the part of Penal Complex officials in supervision of inmates.

Pollution Group Nears Formation

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

Omaha — Officials charged with the administration of policies on water use in 39 states moved a step closer to the establishment of a new national organization designed to aid state governments in communicating with the federal agencies involved in pollution problems here Monday.

The organization to be known as ICE, for the Interstate Conference on the Environment, is expected to have a staff of not more than two people in Washington to aid state officials in getting their problems to the attention of federal officials, and hopefully, to develop some clout on the part of the states in setting federal water policy.

Membership in ICE will be held by several already existing organizations such as the Association of State and Interstate Water Pollution Control Administrators (ASIWPCA), the executive committee of the Conference of State Sanitary Engineers (CSSE) and the executive committee of the Interstate Conference on Water Problems (ICWP).

Membership apparently will be limited to officials of state, federal, regional and in some cases intra-state organizations, such as Nebraska's water resource districts. Officials organizing the group do not contemplate allowing non-government groups such as the Sierra Club to join ICE.

$150,000 To Be Needed

The organization is expected to require $150,000 annually to operate efficiently. Funding is expected to come from individual states participating in the organization.

The joint meeting of water groups from the 39 states also heard from Warren Fairchild, director of the U.S. Water Resources Council who had some good news about federal cost sharing programs for state water projects.

Fairchild told the group "we expect to have new guidelines available for congress to act upon within 30 days. We think those guidelines will use a new set of figures reflecting higher prices for farm crops which will offset increased interest rates that you will need to use in arriving at a cost benefit ratio in justifying a proposed project," he said.

This action, if approved by Congress, would make it much easier for a state to qualify for federal cost sharing funds for

Indian Art Will Be Shown

An exhibition of Nebraska Indian art, open to the public, will be held at the Governor's Mansion Saturday, Mrs. Pat Exon, wife of the governor, reported Monday.

The purpose of the 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. exhibition is to expand the appreciation of Indian art in Nebraska, she said.

WHY DO WE DO IT?

Funeral service could be simpler. In many countries, as a matter of fact, it's a brief and meaningful disposal provided by the state.

In America, we believe that the lives of individuals are important . . . and that the end of life calls for an act of honor and respect.

flood control and irrigation projects within a state.

Officials Warned

Fairchild warned the state officials that there was a trend developing in Washington to call for more state participation in all types of projects that were formerly operated and funded by the federal government.

Fairchild also indicated that the various federal agencies involved in water resource use, pollution and the environmental activities were working together on a national water policy which would soon be announced. He urged state officials to be sure they could present a set of priorities for projects within their state and region to federal officials.

"The alternative is to have the federal government set them (priorities) and you may not like what you get," he warned.

During a session on land use planning the state officials got a legislator's view of federal land use legislation now under consideration in Congress from two of Nebraska's state senators.

Sen. James Dickinson of Millard and Sen. Loran Schmit of Bellwood expressed opposition to what they termed a federal takeover of state responsibilities.

Dickinson told Paul Harley, a planning official of the Department of the Interior, that he objected to the federal agency's planning to administer legislation that was not yet a law and might never be passed.

"It makes me wonder if you don't have enough to do in Washington and it also makes me ask where this legislation comes from. How can you plan to administer a law that hasn't been passed yet?" he said.

Schmit expressed doubts about the ability of Congress to write a law flexible enough to permit changes due to changing needs of land owners.

"Three-fourths of Congress is made up of lawyers who know nothing about land use. If these people had to own a piece of land, pay for it, pay interest on a mortgage on it they might be better qualified to make laws for land owners," he said.

Schmit added that the need to make sound economic decisions would automatically force land owners to make the best possible use of land without any federal legislation.

Stinkers Get Advice

DEAR ABBY: Someone signed "SMELLS BAD IN ROANOKE" wrote to say she was extremely clean about herself and her clothing, but she smelled a terrible odor about herself, which nobody said they smelled, and it was driving her out of her mind.

I had the same problem for four years. Finally my doctor discovered I had diabetes. He put me on a low carbohydrate diet, and the smell left me.

CURED NOW

DEAR ABBY: This is my 50th year as a physician and I have seen a number of cases like the one described by "SMELLS BAD."

That person should consult an ear, nose, and throat specialist for possible "Ozena" (stink nose), which causes a breath so foul that everything smells bad to her. The condition is the result of a chronic infection in nose and sinuses causing upper respiratory membranes to degenerate.

ARIZONA M.D.

DEAR ABBY: I also smelled bad and didn't know why. My doctor looked into my navel with a flashlight and that's where the smell was coming from. He cleaned it out and advised me to keep it clean with a bit of cotton on a toothpick, and my problem was solved.

ON THE BUTTON

DEAR ABBY: Dr. Marion B. Sultzberger, a famous dermatologist, once told me that he had a patient who came to him with the same problem as "SMELLS BAD." The doctor had the man strip. He still smelled bad. Then the doctor told the man to remove his gold wedding-band. That was the culprit! In some people, their body chemistry and certain metals create a very unpleasant odor.

J. T., CORONA DEL MAR, CAL.

DEAR ABBY: Tell that lady who smells bad my brother had the same problem. He went to doctors and nobody could help him. Finally an old man told him to drink four ounces of dry white wine four times a day before meals, and again at bedtime. He did and in a week the odor was gone, and he was like a new man.

COFFEYVILLE, KAS.

DEAR ABBY: "SMELLS BAD" should make an appointment with her dentist immediately. I had that problem, and didn't know it was caused by an infected wisdom tooth. When my dentist discovered it he was amazed that I did not have a toothache that raised the top of my head. I never had a twinge of pain, but that terrible odor nearly drove me nuts!

OKAY NOW

DEAR ABBY: If "SMELLS BAD" wears glasses she should check the nose piece of her glasses. I smelled something vile for months and couldn't detect its source. Finally I discovered it was the perspiration collected in the nose piece of my glasses that was causing it. I bought new glasses, and clean them with alcohol regularly, and haven't had any trouble since.

Look Better, Not Bigger, in Venus Shy Size Bra

Venus calls it Shy Size, but it's not just for under-sized figures.

It's meant to make a woman look natural, but not lacking.

It's for every woman who has shied away from contour and padded bras because of a "too much" look.

Venus' Shy Size bra has an outer cup shaped to give you ideal soft roundness and shaping. Then, with the fiberfil inner cup, it's possible to cheat on what nature provided.

This super-puff fiberfil and a special lining adapt to your size to fill out the bra where you don't, and compress thin where you need no extra help.

In today's fashion, you don't want to look bigger, you want your clothes to fit better. Where you need more fullness, not inches, Venus' Shy Size bra supplies the curves.

If you're an in-between cup size, you'll find the solution to the problem of wrinkling and cup collapse. The adapting inner cup brings you up to perfect size and smooth fit.

Figure-perfecting
Shy Size by Venus

The woman who needs no extra fullness gets custom smoothing and support instead. The lining thins where you fill the bra but keeps its puff in other areas to smooth away dips and bulges.

Venus makes Shy Size with regular and seamless cups of nylon tricot or smooth polyester lace, as well as deep-plunge and halter versions. Most are white or beige, sizes 32-38 A, B and C, from $5 to $8.

"The problems of child support are not new," according to Judge William Blue of the Lancaster District Court. "I have talked with many reporters over the years who have been concerned with the problems of child support."

However, one of the major results of the recent no fault divorce controversy has been a concentrated evaluation of the current child support policies by women's organizations, attorneys, lawmakers and the courts.

Under Nebraska law parents are financially responsible for their minor children. Laws also spell out a system to assess and collect child support when divorce breaks up a marriage.

"At the present, the court will allow a certain amount of child support, based on the need of the children and the ability of the father to pay," Judge Blue pointed out.

This amount is set forth in the dissolution decree or the couple's property settlement agreement, and becomes an order of the court.

"From then on it is a judgment against the person paying child support," he said, adding, "It is a continuing judgment—even if it is paid each month."

After a judgment has been ordered, child support payments, in most cases, are paid through the Clerk of the District Court, where the payer (most often the father) is issued a receipt of payment. Then the payments are recorded on ledger sheets in the Clerk's office and the payment is forwarded to the payee (usually the mother who has custody of the children).

When the mother files a complaint of non-payment with a private attorney or the county attorney, various methods can be used to either obtain payment or punish the offender.

Among the civil remedies is wage garnishment.

"Unlike most judgments concerning garnishments, there can be a 100% garnishment in child support judgments, rather than the usual 15%," Judge Blue noted.

Also, according to Blue, "If the payments go unpaid, an attachment can be placed on property which then can be sold," because payments

Chemicals In Fabric
May Cause Irritation

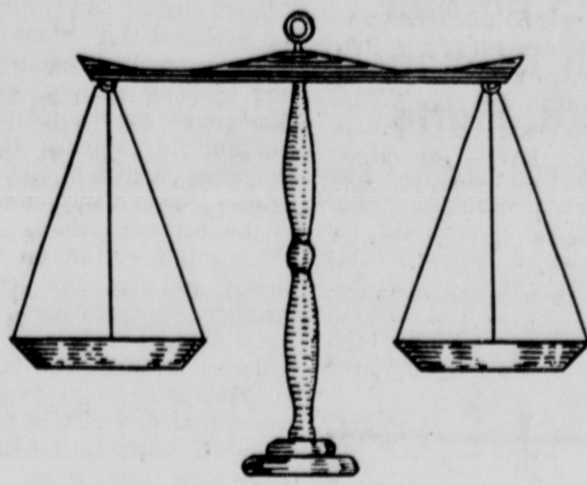

Testing laboratories have received complaints of skin irritation from durable-press garments. The irritation has been traced almost exclusively to formaldehyde type resin compounds present in durable-press garments.

The irritation can be prevented by laundering or wetcleaning the garment before wearing, to remove excessive chemicals which remain in the fabric after the finishing is completed.

"The law (is) a horrible business. There is no such thing as justice—in or out of court," stated well-known Chicago trial lawyer Clarence S. Darrow in a 1936 interview.

The legal and human problems of child support clearly illustrate Darrow's statement. All parties in divorce—mother, father, children—feel the inequities and injustices of laws which cannot possibly cater to the needs and desire of all concerned.

A series of four articles dealing with the question of child support in Nebraska will present these laws, the injustices, the feelings and problems of parents and the possible solutions. Today—Child Support and Nebraska Law.

become a lien on property.

"Or the man can be brought before the court on a contempt of court charge. If he is found in contempt, he faces a jail sentence which is a real substantial punishment."

A person whose payments are 30 days in arrears can also be charged with a misdemeanor and faces a maximum three-month jail sentence. In the case of payments delinquent by more than 30 days, a felony charge which carries a maximum sentence of three years in the penitentiary can be filed.

A jail sentence is handed down by the court "if he is not paying and he has the means to pay, or if he flouts the order of the court," he said.

On the subject of contempt of court, Deputy County Attorney Richard McClain said, "People can be prosecuted as to a jail sentence if they willfully fail or refuse to comply with a court order."

"Other contempt of court procedures can be taken if they don't pay the family debts or alimony. Also, violation of a restraining order or refusal to allow visitation on behalf of either party can constitute reason for filing a contempt of court charge."

"Sentence for contempt of court is jail, but many times the persons purge themselves of contempt of court; in other words, they are given a chance to correct the violation," he continued.

After a contempt charge has been filed, "the case can get dropped in two or three months if the person complies—this is for the first offense," McClain explained.

"For the second offense they're put in jail," McClain added, "because we don't want to play around with them over and over."

"The problem we often have is that men will come up with the money and pay their child support before their sentences begin. But one guy is now serving a year in the penitentiary for not complying with the court order and paying child support."

Even if an offender eventually complies with order to pay child support, he still sees the inside of a jail cell from the time he is arrested until he appears in court.

"Right now, they're going to do it or they're going to jail. They make their own bed."

ELROY ANDERSON . . . works on support records at the Clerk of the District Court office.

Other procedures are necessary when the father not only neglects to pay child support but also moves from the state to avoid prosecutions.

"If we have the man's address, Uniform Reciprocal Support Action is started here and filed with the District Court," McClain said. "The action goes to the court in the county where the father lives, and there the prosecuting attorney handles it as a civil procedure."

In that county, the father is notified of the pending charges and instructed to either pay the child support due or appear in court to give the reasons for non-payment.

UNL Professor Earns Citation For Research

A childhood dislike of poems that later blossomed into a love affair with poetry led to research which has brought national recognition to its author.

Dr. Ann Terry, assistant professor of elementary education at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, is one of five persons to receive citations from the National Council of Teachers of English (NCTE). The citations are awarded for research which makes a lasting contribution to English education.

Dr. Terry said she began thinking about her research topic, children's poetry preferences, while she was taking a graduate course in adolescent literature.

"I hated poetry when I was a child, but in this class we spent six weeks studying poetry, and I loved it. It came alive for me," she said.

Her new interest in poetry made Dr. Terry curious about children's response to poems, and she decided to study fourth, fifth and sixth graders' poetry preferences for her doctoral dissertation at Ohio State University.

Using cassette recordings of all types of poetry, Dr. Terry surveyed children from inner city, suburban and rural backgrounds in classrooms across the United States.

Dr. Terry said her research showed the children preferred poetry which told a humorous story and had rhythm and distinctive sounds.

"They didn't enjoy many of the classics like 'Stopping by the Woods on a Snowy Evening' and 'Paul Revere's Ride,'" she said. "They preferred contemporary poetry and loved poems relevant to today's situation."

"Mommy Slept Late and Daddy Fixed Breakfast" by John Ciardi was the favorite poem in the sampling, according to Dr. Terry.

She said her research showed that most children disliked

Dr. Ann Terry haiku, a three-line form of Japanese poetry, because they thought it was too short, hard to understand and lacked rhyme. "Children's response to poetry forms hasn't really changed since 1920," Dr. Terry said. "This may indicate that they haven't had much exposure to poetry. Many teachers said they didn't know that much about poetry, and poems were seldom read or written in class."

Council Tightens Laws On Shoplifting

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

City Council members Monday tightened up the city's shoplifting laws by closing several loopholes in the present law.

The ordinance, which was introduced by Councilman Max Denney, makes illegal several acts not now covered in the city code, including the switching of price tags on merchandise.

In other action the council authorized the purchase of several properties located in the proposed Northeast Radial's right-of-way.

The vote was 6 to 1 with Councilman John Robinson casting the only no vote.

The other six city lawmakers agreed that prior contractual obligations had been made between the city and the Catherine Reese guardianship, for a lot at 1345 No. 21st. The price is not to exceed $4,500.

The council also agreed that a prior commitment had been made with the Omaha, Lincoln and Beatrice Railway Co. for the purchase of lots located between 27th and 33rd. The price agreed upon is $9,402.

All Funds Frozen
The council froze all funds for radial purchases on April 16, except for the fulfillment of contractual obligations entered into prior to that date.

Robinson said he was "not particularly moved" by that argument, saying he could see no moral or legal commitment on the part of the city to buy the land.

In the wake of last week's close defeat of Farm Bureau Insurance Co.'s application for a zoning change to build a home office building in Northwest Lincoln, Councilman Bob Sikyta attempted to get the item reconsidered Monday. He failed.

No member of the prevailing side would introduce a motion for reconsideration, even though Sikyta contended some "new evidence" had been brought to his attention.

The application was defeated 4 to 3 last week, with Sikyta, Denney and Steve Cook casting the losing yes votes.

Sikyta presented a letter from the insurance company which indicated the firm was willing to reduce from 16 acres to eight the amount of land involved in the rezoning battle. Additionally, the firm agreed to construct just one office building on the site, located south of Superior and east of 1st.

Question Of Similarity
Councilwoman Helen Boosalis pointed out that the company could reintroduce the application, at which time a determination would have to be made on its "substantial similarity" to the present application.

Under the city code, a one year period must lapse before zoning requests of a similar nature can be introduced to the council.

City Atty. Dick Wood advised the council that the similarity question is a factual question, not a legal one, and that the council would have to make that determination.

In further action the council:

Ordinances, Third Reading
—Authorized acquisition of additional parcel of land for off-street parking facility ty on east side of No. 48th between Baldwin and St. Paul.

Resolutions and Public Hearings —Set hearing for Nov. 5 on application of A. C. Frank, dba Al's Liquor Drive In, for package license at 115 No. 19th.
—Extended completion date to Sept. 15, 1974, for completion of sidewalks in Hanson Heights Add.
—Approved administrative subdivision permit for 33rd and W without dedication of additional four feet of right-of-way along 33rd.
—Approved administrative subdivision permit at 23rd and A without dedication of additional right-of-way along A.

Ordinances, First Reading
—Accepting plat of Neerpark Add., east of So. 56th and north of Calvert.
—Amending code by adding new section prohibiting people from driving through, around or under any barrier, at railroad crossing.

Pair Charged With Robbery In No. Platte

North Platte (UPI) — Two North Platte men were arrested Monday and charged with the $3,000 armed robbery of the Sands Motor Hotel here on Oct. 14.

Accused were Jeffrey Lynn Wilson, 21, and Edward Wayne Smith, 23.

Council Told To Look At Supplies Of Water

City lawmakers were urged to look to the future by securing enough water supplies so that the taps don't run dry some 20 years from now.

Members of the Water and Sewer Advisory Board told City Council members Monday that unless Lincoln protects its water rights and acquires additional water wells, future supplies may be depleted.

Board member Dewey Anderson explained that Omaha has recently acquired additional land north of Ashland, while mining and gravel operations continue to increase their businesses. Anderson said he believes Lincoln is only planning for the short term future.

Public Utilities Director Lee Blocker said that such action would be "very premature."

Still Awaiting Study

Blocker explained that he is still awaiting the completion of a hydrology study which, he said, would help advise on Lincoln's future water supply needs.

One possibility would be to share joint well fields and treatment plants with Omaha's Metropolitan Utilities District (MUD), Blocker said.

However, so far such plans have been pretty well ruled out by both cities.

If Lincoln were to embark on such an energetic land acquisition program to acquire more well fields, the city would be departing from its conservative course, Blocker told the council. "It takes millions of dollars to get the ball rolling," he said. "We're not an MUD. A municipal operation is a conservative poor cousin."

Councilwoman Helen Boosalis interjected, "Maybe it's time to have some long range plans and go ahead with them by setting rates to meet those plans."

Crash Programs
She said the city too often embarks on crash programs to meet its needs.

Said Blocker: "We can go the Cadillac route or the Valiant route. Or go somewhere in between."

Dewey explained that the board is opposed to "spending money foolishly," but said the board thinks the city should acquire additional water wells and land options within the next two to five years.

The council also directed the board to come up with a recommendation on modifications in the water and sewer use rates.

Councilman Bob Sikyta said he has received complaints from low income and retired people who supplement their income by renting an apartment in their home. Sikyta said the rates are adversely affecting those two groups and asked if some changes in the law could be made.

Blocker said the council could charge duplexes the same minimum $1.50 sewer use fee as a single family house. He cited a legal opinion from Chief Asst. City Atty. Charles Humble which said a distinction could be made between duplexes and triplexes. The three-dwelling units can be considered more of a commercial venture, he said.

Questions Numerous On Police Substation

The Lincoln Police Department's plan to open a substation at Gateway Shopping Center prompted a barrage of questions by City Council members Monday.

Fielding the questions, Chief Joe Carroll explained that space in the shopping center is being provided by Lincoln Gateway, Inc. That corporation is a subsidiary of Bankers' Life.

Carroll said that radio equipment, telephones and routine papers will be kept in the office. The shopping center will furnish the utilities and office space.

Council members indicated they were somewhat unhappy over the decision to open the substation without being consulted on the matter.

Councilwoman Helen Boosalis

questioned if there is a need for the operation and asked why funds for such precincts were not asked for in the police budget.

Carroll said he believes there is a need and reported that police officers now use fire department substations for filling out accident reports and other police matters.

Councilman Bob Sikyta said he would like to see such funds budgeted so that other offices could be opened around the city.

Councilman Max Denney, said he thought the arrangement with the shopping center for free space would set a "bad precedent."

Denney explained he believed the police should not be obliged to any business or agency.

Rule Giving Highest Pay To Mayor Will Get Eye

The Lincoln Governmental Evaluation Commission, often dubbed "the Little Hoover Commission," will be asked by the City Council to look into the effect of removing the provision requiring the mayor to be the highest paid city employee.

In a report to fellow lawmakers, Council members Sue Bailey and Bob Sikyta recommended that the commission consider the effects of eliminating that provision, thus paving the way for higher salaried department heads.

Councilwoman Helen Boosalis objected to sending the matter to the commission. She said she favored sending the question directly to the Charter Revision Committee and avoiding the duplication.

Council members agreed that the restrictive provision handicaps the city in seeking and keeping qualified people.

In the report, Bailey and Sikyta said they would like to know the number of times the mayor's salary has been raised in order to make a department head's salary competitive with other cities and private industry.

The two council members also noted that the 1972 Public Administration Services report recommended the elimination of the salary provision.

Lincoln, Omaha Face Auto Exhaust Problem

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

Recent air pollution levels in Lincoln and Omaha indicate that traffic controls, along the lines of those proposed for Los Angeles and Denver, may be needed to reduce carbon monoxide levels.

Federal and state environmental agency officials are scheduled to discuss the local carbon monoxide question Nov. 5 at a day-long meeting in Lincoln.

Gene Robinson, chief of the air pollution division for the State Department of Environmental Control (DEC), said Monday that on at least two occasions since Aug. 1 carbon monoxide levels in Lincoln have topped the 10 milligrams per cubic meter of air allowed by federal law.

The exact number of times the standard has been exceeded was not available Monday.

Robinson said he did not have the data, and Gary Walsh, deputy air pollution control officer for Lincoln-Lancaster County, declined to release the information in the absence of his superior, Les Sanger.

In Omaha, the standard was exceeded over 11 times during a 48-hour period, Robinson said.

Federal standards dictate that carbon monoxide levels cannot exceed the eight-hour maximum more than once per year.

Carbon monoxide is a colorless, odorless, tasteless gas known to aggravate respiratory problems and capable of killing in sufficient concentrations. The major source of carbon monoxide is automobile exhaust.

Regarding possible traffic controls, Robinson said, "I'm hoping it doesn't come down to this, even if, say, the carbon monoxide level is over the standard four, five or 20 times a year."

"If we (the state) do it, it'll be under order." Ways to control traffic mentioned by Robinson include:

- restricting parking in problem areas.
- encouraging mass transit.
- creating more one-way streets.

- establishing commuter parking lots.
- levying commuter taxes.

Part of the reason the carbon monoxide question has arisen so suddenly has to do with the manner in which the DEC developed its master plan for controlling all forms of air pollution.

The state plan makes no mention of carbon monoxide levels, Walsh said, because the DEC did not feel that there were sufficient cars in Lincoln to create a problem. Consequently, it was difficult to justify buying carbon monoxide sampling equipment.

The sampler currently being used in Lincoln is on loan from the state.

Another reason behind the sudden increase in carbon monoxide readings is that both the samplers in Omaha and Lincoln were moved to new locations recently.

Lincoln's sampler had been located on the University of Nebraska's downtown campus, but was moved to 25th & O Streets because Robinson said a professor wanted it out of his classroom.

Exon Appointments Reported To Mental Retardation Panel

Appointments to a reconstituted Governor's Committee on Mental Retardation were announced Monday by Gov. J. James Exon.

The governor said the former committee had itself recommended that a new committee be formed, made up of one-half parents and guardians or similar representatives of persons receiving services to the mentally retarded; one-fourth of professionals; and one-fourth of interested citizens.

State Institutions Director Jack R. Anderson will continue to serve as chairman, Exon said.

Named members were David A. Blume, Jim Stange, Mrs. Pat Crawford, Richard Longacre, Mrs. Eleanor Enersen and Kay Rising, all of Lincoln; Dr. J. Lewis Yager, Mrs. Ruth Sharp, Dr. James Eisen, Dr. Paul Pearson and John Pleiss, all of Omaha; Chuck Lowry, Columbus; Glen Daugherty, Grand Island; Mrs. Amerlia Nicks, Cozad; Mrs. Marilyn Pearson, Holdrege; The Rev. Roland Johnson, Axtell; La Vern Poppe, Hebron; M. K. Sorensen, Henderson, and G. A. Sommers, Scottsbluff.

Exon said the committee's purpose is "to provide advice as the needs of the mentally retarded in Nebraska, and to help the governor and the director of the Department of Public Institutions in making plans to meet those needs by the development of coordinated state-wide programs."

The former committee had recommended that the new committee evaluate existing programs, formulate recommendations to the institutions director, prepare legislative proposals and counsel the governor on funding and administrative operations.

Capt. Thomas Backs 'Peace With Power'

"Peace with honor means peace with power," said Navy Capt. Walter R. Thomas, featured speaker in a Veterans Day program Monday at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Lincoln.

The military, Thomas said, has "been successful in maintaining that peace with honor, that heritage."

But the captain, naval science professor and commander of the University of Nebraska Reserve Officers' Training Corps (ROTC) unit, pointed out that "this nation was not built for the military to direct it," but rather, to carry out policy.

"It's poor policy sometimes," he said, but added, "It depends on the American people."

The determinant, he said, is that "the Americans have always ended their conflicts and their wars in a way that kept America secure."

Depend On Ourselves
In the future, we have no one to depend on except ourselves, he said.

Barney Sword, VA chief of engineering, introduced

Thomas, saying that "in the last 10 years, this is one (Veterans) Day we can celebrate peace."

About 75 military veterans and VA Hospital patients heard Thomas trace briefly the history of American warfare.

He submitted that no wars, except perhaps the two world wars, have been popular in America. "We had bribery and fraud and draft riots," he said.

Thomas asked if the Vietnam war was a bad one, then answered his own question, saying, "I've never seen a good war. We've never had one. There's no such thing."

Never Much Support
And he pointed out that American wars have never generated much popular support.

The nation does not understand the military man, he said, and submitted, "The military are not war-mongers, for the military are the ones who suffer the wounds and scars of war."

Yet Thomas expressed concern that other nations are garnering more military power, while America's forces dwindle. He said the importance of the future lies in "projecting the nation's needs rather than the military's needs."

"The strength of America not only depends on peace but prosperity" as well, he said.

Meeting Set To Organize Demonstration

An organizational meeting for a demonstration urging the impeachment of President Nixon will be held at 3:30 p.m. Tuesday in the United Ministries in Higher Education (UMHE) chapel, 333 No. 14th.

Thomas O. Manig, teaching assistant in the University of Nebraska-Lincoln philosophy department, made the announcement Monday.

Manig urged all interested groups and individuals to attend the organizational meeting, when the group will consider staging a demonstration Thursday at Rep. Charles Thone's office.

Like Putting Toothpaste Back

This may be the most futile effort I've undertaken since the morning I squeezed out too much toothpaste, then tried to push some of it back into the tube.

The few people to whom the following words are aimed may not have the IQ necessary for reading and even if they are literate enough to read, it's quite likely that they don't know enough about either football or 19-year-old youngsters for those words to have any effect.

But if you're one of the vast majority in the crowd of 76,498 at Memorial Stadium who had enough class not to boo and you happen to know any of the small minority who did boo maybe you can try to explain it to them.

It's almost unbelievable that fans could be more upset over a 10-9 win than over a 13-12 loss, but that seems to have been the case Saturday.

It brought back memories of a couple of winning efforts in the Bob Devaney era at Nebraska with which the fans were upset. But at least they didn't boo.

One was a 21-3 victory over Colorado at Boulder in 1964 and the other a 14-0 win over Texas A & M in Lincoln in 1969.

Devaney Advises Fans

It was after that 1964 game at Colorado in which the Huskers had been unimpressive, using a 35-yard deflected pass from Bob Church to Kent McCoughan and the recovery of a CU fumble at the Buffs' nine-yard line to post a 21-3 win over a Colorado team that finished the season at 1-6 in the Big Eight and 2-8 overall, that Devaney delivered a stern lecture.

Addressing a Nebraska Extra Point Club Luncheon at the Hotel Cornhusker the following Monday, Devaney advised Husker fans, "Any time that our fans can't be satisfied with a win, even by only one point, then it's time they took a look at themselves."

Many fans also were quite irate after that 14-0 win over Texas A & M because after taking the 14-0 lead in the first half by passing, the Huskers chose to run the ball almost exclusively in the second 30 minutes.

Devaney's reasoning in that case was logical just as was Tom Osborne's reasoning in not throwing the ball against Kansas.

Devaney's reasoning in that situation was that I-back Joe Orduna had been lost before the season started and No. 2 I-back Frank Vactor was injured early in that game.

That left the I-back chores up to Jeff Kinney, a sophomore who had started the season at wingback, and Devaney simply wanted to give him some running experience from the new position.

A Coach's Obligation

I recall sitting on the AstroTurf at Memorial Stadium with North Carolina State coach Lou Holtz on the Friday preceding the N.C. State-Nebraska game and discussing how Wolfpack fans felt and how he felt about his quarterback situation between Bruce Shaw and Dave Buckley.

"A coach's main obligation is to make the decisions that will best give his team the opportunity to win," he asserted.

That's exactly what Tom Osborne did Saturday. We'd bet that not one of the booing fans and probably not many of the other 76,498 fans knew what KU was doing on defense that made passing a most dangerous tactic.

However, they should have gotten some clue when a Kansas defensive end intercepted a pass 15 yards downfield. Or maybe they just thought he was out of position.

Throwing into an eight-man pass coverage might have gotten you three or four more touchdowns. It also might have gotten you half a dozen interceptions and gotten you beat.

Throwing the football regardless of the defense being used is why Joe Namath in his heyday has thrown five touchdown passes one week and thrown seven interceptions the next.

The Most Stupid Question

The most stupid question I've ever heard asked in 13 years in this business was the one asked at Monday's Extra Point Club Luncheon by the guy, who wanted to know why the Huskers didn't try to score from deep in their own territory with 30 seconds to go in the first half and leading by 7-3.

"Why would you waste that 30 seconds," the guy wanted to know. Osborne tried to answer the question in a nice manner and did so.

What the Husker coach should have done was ask the guy how much money he had bet, giving away 19 points.

You'd have to be a better to have argued with that strategy, but then to a better, if you don't beat the point spread, you might as well lose the game.

Maybe the Husker coaches are using the wrong methods to plot strategy. Maybe, instead of spending hours daily watching films of opponents, they should be sitting in a neighborhood bar.

Maybe then, they could be as smart as the fans who are unhappy over the one-point victory.

MU's Downing Cited

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Bill Crisler is a guy who among other things looks for football teams to appear in the Cotton Bowl New Year's Day.

Crisler was doing just that last Saturday at Missouri where the seventh-ranked Tigers defeated Oklahoma State 13-9.

He had never heard of Missouri's Kenny Downing when the game started. He has now.

"That No. 19 is one of the finest defensive halfbacks I've seen," said Crisler. "I don't know how many tackles he made but as far as I'm concerned, he was the finest all around player out there."

A panel of sports writers, meeting Monday to select the Big Eight Conference defensive player of the week, liked Downing's performance also and unanimously named the sophomore from Aurora, Mo. Downing made 13 tackles, including eight unassisted and two for losses totaling six yards. He recovered a fumble that led to the undefeated Tigers' first touchdown and broke up one Cowboy pass.

"I'm real glad," said Missouri Coach Al Onofrio of Downing's selection. "He had a great game. He did a heckuva job guarding against the pass."

Downing's fumble recovery came at the Cowboys' 35-yard line in the first quarter. John Cherry promptly shot a 35-yrd pass to Jim Sharp for the touchdown.

The other defensive players nominated were Alvan Brown of Oklahoma State, Randy Hughes of Oklahoma, Randy Borg of Nebraska, Matt Blair of Iowa State, Dean Baird of Kansas, Denny Gragg of Kansas State and Rich Bland of Colorado.

NU's One-Point Win Pleasing To Osborne

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Admitting "I know there's not unrestrained joy across the state," Nebraska head football coach Tom Osborne maintained, "but I'm pleased even though the win was by only one point."

And assistant coach George Darlington pointed out at the weekly Nebraska Extra Point Club Luncheon Monday, "The important thing is to be in the left-hand column."

What they were referring to, of course, was the 10-9 victory Saturday over Kansas, a win that has not been met with overwhelming approval from many Husker fans.

"We felt it was a game we had to win," Osborne pointed out. "And we played to win."

Maybe it wasn't as aesthetic as some would have like, but the week before we threw the ball 30 times, threw out of our own end zone and threw a halfback pass... and lost.

"I hope you understand that there are reasons why we do things the way we do."

And Osborne explained those reasons.

"The reason we had to try to run was that Kansas was defending us the same way we were defending them," he explained, referring to the dropping of eight men into the pass coverage.

"Kansas is one of the leading teams in the nation in pass interceptions," he added. The Jayhawks came into the game with 15 interceptions in five games. "We just didn't feel there was any percentage in trying to force the ball into that kind of pass coverage."

The Husker coach also pointed out that Kansas had the best pair of defensive tackles, the best linebackers and the best secondary Nebraska had faced thus far.

Observing that he was very pleased with the way his defense had played, Osborne added, "It was the finest game ever played by a Nebraska secondary."

"Jaynes (Kansas quarterback David Jaynes) had to throw the ball away eight or 10 times. Those weren't just bad passes. He was throwing it away."

"Had he been an average quarterback, I assure you we'd have had four or five interceptions."

Osborne said he also was pleased with the Husker kicking game.

"Our kickoffs were better," he noted.

"(Mike) Coyle was kicking it higher and we were getting down faster on coverage."

"And our punting with Rich Sanger was as good as it's ever been."

But Osborne admitted he wasn't pleased with the Husker offense.

"We didn't block well," he pointed out. "And if you don't control the line of scrimmage, you're not going to move the ball whether you're passing or running."

Looking to Saturday's contest at Oklahoma State, Osborne asserted, "If we can win this game, we'll go into the stretch run in the Big Eight in good shape."

"There are some people who don't think we can win the Big Eight, but I believe we can and our players believe we can."

NU FRESHMEN WIN

Huskers Tip Sooners, 13-3

.. MISCUES HIT OU

Norman, Okla. — Two recovered fumbles and a blocked punt provided the Nebraska freshmen football team with 13 points en route to a 13-3 victory over the Oklahoma freshman here Monday night at Owen Field.

The victory boosted coach Jim Ross' Husker yearlings to a 2-1 record while OU fell to 2-1. It was the first meeting between the two schools in freshmen football.

NU started early when Lee Hober fumbled the opening kickoff and the Huskers recovered on the OU 23-yard line.

Seven plays later, linebacker King Block booted a 23-yard field goal with 11:33 remaining in the opening quarter as NU led 3-0.

Three plays into OU's next possession after the kickoff, quarterback Joe McReynolds' fumble was recovered by former Lincoln East High School standout Reg Gast at the OU 27.

Two plays later, running back Dave Gillespie scored a touchdown on a 20-yard scamper. Block's conversion kick gave the Huskers a 10-0 with 9:33 left in the first period.

The Sooners then erupted for their only scoring drive of the night, traveling 75 yards in 8 plays as Steve Larghe booted a 30-yard field goal with 10:30 left before halftime to complete the first-half scoring with NU leading 10-3.

The only second-half score came when Rod Stovall, a former Bellevue standout, blocked a John Randolph punt and the Huskers recovered at the OU 20.

Block then kicked his second field goal with 5:42 left in the third quarter as Nebraska completed the scoring.

Oklahoma, however, mounted a late threat which carried to the Nebraska one with less than three minutes to play. But that drive ended as halfback Ed Williams' fumble was recovered by Kurt Stacey.

NU's leading rushers included Jason Justice with 64 yards in 15 carries, former Lincoln High School standout Bob Folsom with 51 yards in 8 attempts and Gillespie with 49 yards in 13 runs.

OU was paced by Williams with 63 yards in 9 carries and McReynolds with 30 yards in 17 rushes.

McReynolds, stymied constantly by the NU defense, completed only 2 of 17 attempts and had two passes pirated.

Nebraska quarterback Randy Garcia hit 3 of 7 passes for 23 yards in guiding the Huskers before 12,000 fans.

Both teams were guilty of miscues as Nebraska lost 5 of 7 fumbles and OU lost 4 of 6.

The Huskers, who have defeated Kansas State, 10-7, and lost, 24-22 to Missouri, host Colorado Nov. 2 at Memorial Stadium. NU completes its season by hosting Iowa State on Nov. 9.

OU hosts Kansas on Nov. 5.

OSU Replaces Injured Back

Stillwater, Okla. (AP) — Oklahoma State halfback Fountain Smith bruised his shoulder in last week's game against Missouri but should be ready for Saturday's game against Nebraska at Stillwater, coach Jim Stanley announced Monday.

Smith, however has lost his starting position to junior Leonard Thompson, a 6-foot, 185-pounder from Tucson, Arizona.

Thompson, a junior college transfer from Arizona Western, scored the Cowboys' only touchdown against Missouri on a five yard run.

Macaitis Calls Pius X 'Class' Football Team

By RANDY YORK
Prep Sports Writer

How does one describe veteran Lincoln Pius X football coach Vince Aldrich?

"He's a sly, old fox who'll try anything to win," says Omaha Gross coach Stan Macaitis, whose second-ranked club hosts the third-ranked Bolts Saturday night in a Class B showdown.

The glib Macaitis uses one word to describe Pius X's team. "Class," he says. "They always know how to play, according to the competition."

"One week, they might be out at Twisted Twig or Busted Bow on a bad field with bad lights and win, then come back the next week at Seacrest Field and beat one of those Class A Lincoln schools... or at least scare the daylight out of them," observes Macaitis.

Gross is no different. Last week, the Cougars stunned Sioux City Heelan, the fourth-ranked AA team in Iowa's largest classification, 14-13.

"It was a super defensive performance. We'd bend, but never break," relates Macaitis. "We put everything together so well that I think it was finest defense."

Nebraska Prep Ratings

By Randy York

Class B

- 1—Lexington (7-0)
- 2—Omaha Gross (7-0)
- 3—Lincoln Pius X (5-0)
- 4—Norris (7-0)
- 5—Fairbury (6-0)
- 6—Blair (6-0)
- 7—Columbus Scotus (6-1)
- 8—Schuyler (6-1)
- 9—Ord (6-1)
- 10—Cozad (6-1)

Comment — Columbus Scotus makes first ratings appearance after 14-7 win over Schuyler. A 9-7 season-opening loss to No. 9 Ord is only blemish on Scotus record. Chadron drops from top 10 following 16-6 loss to Kimball. Both Western Nebraska schools sport 6-1 records, however, and could rejoin elite. Once-beaten David City, despite not losing last weekend, exits from ratings in light of Schuyler's loss. Schuyler owns a 17-14 win over David City.

Class C

- 1—Sutton (7-0)
- 2—Plainview (7-0)
- 3—Grant (6-1)
- 4—Sandy Creek (5-1)
- 5—St. Edward (6-0)
- 6—Neligh (6-1)
- 7—Bassett (5-0)
- 8—Hay Springs (7-0)
- 9—Arnold (7-0)
- 10—Henderson (4-2)

Comment — Stanton, minus three backfield starters because of injury, dropped from fifth out of top 10 after 25-0 loss to Wakefield. Its exit creates vacancy for Henderson to rejoin top 10 despite 20-14 loss to once-beaten Class B Centennial. Henderson's other setback is to top-rated Sutton. Three unbeaten — Dodge (7-0), Arapahoe (5-0-1) and Medicine Valley (5-0-1) — are still waiting for right circumstances to advance.

Sooners, Missouri Praised

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—Al Onofrio said his Missouri team is "the hardest-playing football team I've ever been around" and Vince Gibson said Oklahoma "probably is the best team in the country."

Those were the developments Monday at the weekly Big Eight Conference briefings session.

Missouri, which has won six straight games and is the surprise team in the Big Eight, drew its coach's unqualified praise.

"Football is a game of making the most of your opportunities," said Onofrio. "This team has been lucky, but it's played real hard, too. It's been the hardest-playing football team I've ever been around and I don't say that just because I'm the coach."

"I just hope they keep it up. We haven't had many injuries. We've been fortunate and we've had a good kicking game."

Onofrio said the 22 seniors on the Missouri team have had much to do with the Tigers' success.

"They went through the 1-10 disaster in 1971 and they had an exciting season last year, full of ups and downs," said Onofrio. "They've been through both the good and the bad. They're not complacent, they want to have a good football team."

Colorado Coach Eddie Crowder, whose Buffaloes host Missouri Saturday, added, "Missouri is some kind of tough physical team. They're playing with virtually no errors—no penalties and few fumbles and interceptions. They're a team that does not and will not beat themselves."

The Tigers have won two Big Eight games by a total of five points, 13-12 over Nebraska and 13-9 over Oklahoma State.

While Missouri has been hanging on, Oklahoma has been throttling its foes. The Sooners have lashed Texas, 52-13, and Colorado, 34-7, in successive outings.

"This Oklahoma team is more physical than any Oklahoma team I've ever seen," said Gibson, whose Wildcats host the Sooners Saturday. "In 1971, they had fantastic offensive material, but their defense wasn't that physical. Last year they were great on defense and average on offense. This year they're balanced and great everywhere."

Crowder agreed, adding, "What's amazing about Oklahoma is they're playing so well with so many young players and they'll keep getting better as the season goes on."

Doherty, Swann Exchange Letters

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Dear Lynn," started the letter addressed to Southern California flanker-punt returner Lynn Swann. "If you've got the guts to try to catch one of my high, floating, mile-long kicks, lots of luck."

Brian Doherty, Notre Dame's punter, continued: "When the ball comes down, there will be 10 Notre Dame jerseys right on top of you. If you even touch the ball, you're all done."

Swann and the Trojans travel to South Bend, Ind. for a nationally televised football game against the Fighting Irish Saturday, and Lynn replied with a letter.

"Dear Brian... I'm on my way. I want you to be waiting. When I escape those 10 jerseys and humiliate them, and I'm coming right at you. I won't run to the left. I won't run to the right. I'll run right over you, and lots of luck to you, too, when the coach takes you out and puts you on the bench to stay."

Swann laughed at this unusual "pen pal" relationship that started after they met at a football clinic earlier this year in Portland, Ore. Doherty's home town.

"We've kidded each other a lot the last few months," said Swann. "Actually, we've become very close. We write to each other and sometimes talk on the phone."

Midland Gets Lift From Oakley

By STEVE GILLISPIE
Star Sports Writer

The return of fullback Bob Oakley has given Midland both a physical and mental lift.

The 5-11, 180-pound Belgrade junior missed three games because of a severe case of the flu. "Our inside running game is much stronger with Bob in the lineup," Warrior coach Don Watchorn says.

With Oakley not playing Midland dropped games to Yankton, S.D. Wayne and Doane.

Since his return the Warriors have beaten Dana and Concordia. The win over the latter was the first in six years over the Seward college.

"The team had more confidence when Bob returned and broke several long gainers," Watchorn says.

Bob's replacement (Schuyler sophomore Lynn Pelan) was doing a good job, but lacked the experience to consistently make the big play for us."

However, Pelan hasn't been taken out completely and is now alternating with Oakley. "By alternating the two we can keep both players fresh," Watchorn notes.

"And it's critical we keep our fullbacks rested since they take a lot of physical punishment running out of our wishbone."

The Warriors were expecting to field a strong team this year based on last season's success and the return of most starters, including Oakley.

After opening with a win over Westmar, Iowa, the Fremont team lost to Colorado College, Yankton, Wayne and Doane.

"All the teams that have beaten us either gave us a good game last year or defeated us," Watchorn points out.

"And all four teams had most of their starters back and have done well so far this season."

Colorado College is still unbeaten, Yankton has only lost to the nation's top-ranked small college, Northwestern, Iowa, Wayne was undefeated until last weekend and Doane has only lost to Yankton and tied by Nebraska Wesleyan.

"Our kids didn't quit and we're quite happy with our comeback," Watchorn says. "We hurt ourselves as much as our opponents did in those losses with our mistakes."

Watchorn was referring to lost fumbles and pass interceptions. Even in their latest win the Warriors fumbled six times and lost all six.

"We expect to fumble a few times since we're a wishbone team, but we should have made some adjustments after we were fumbling too much and didn't," Watchorn notes.

"However, we have our confidence back and this has made us better every week and we hope it will carry us to the end of the season."

Sooners Denied Hawaii Game

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — The University of Oklahoma requested and was denied an opportunity to schedule a 12th football game at Hawaii at a recent Big Eight Conference faculty representatives' meeting. Commissioner Chuck Neinas revealed Monday.

The Sooners, who received a two-year probationary sentence by the conference in August, are ineligible for bowl appearances after the 1973 and 1974 seasons. They also are ineligible to appear on television during the 1974 and 1975 seasons.

The faculty representatives, meeting here Oct. 11-12, ruled that a team must be "in good standing" to schedule a post-season game. Another rule dictated that the game must be scheduled before Dec. 10 and the Sooners requested a Dec. 14 date.

Neinas said Oklahoma could have changed the date to before Dec. 10, but the "in good standing" rule denied the game.

Angels Trade Five Players To Brewers

Anaheim, Calif. (UPI) — The California Angels gave up pitcher Clyde Wright to Milwaukee in return for catcher Ellie Rodriguez Monday in a mass trade with the Brewers that totaled 10 players.

In addition to Wright, who compiled an 87-83 record in eight years with the club, the Angel players dealt to Milwaukee were pitcher Steve Barber, outfielder Ken Berry, catcher Art Kusnyer, and a player to be named later, probably a minor leaguer.

The Brewers involved in the trade were Rodriguez, who hit .269 last season, pitcher Skip Lockwood, pitcher Gary Ryerson, and outfielders Ollie Brown and Joe Lahoud.

Tour Guide Is Kept Busy By Travelers

By JOEL THORSON
Outstate Nebraska Bureau
Gretna — Every year, thousands of westbound I-80 travelers make their first Nebraska stop at the Melia Hill rest area overlooking the Platte Valley near here. State tour guide Margaret Eggen is likely to be the first Nebraskan they meet.

Mrs. Eggen, who prefers to be known simply as Margaret, takes the responsibility seriously.
Frequent car trouble, heavy vacation traffic, mistaken preconceptions and ignorance about Nebraska, and all kinds of other travel problems keep Margaret jumping from before 8:30 each morning to 4:30 each afternoon, Monday through Friday.

But the former Omaha Credit Bureau employee — the only full-time, year-around guide in the State Department of Economic Development's (DED) tour guide program — tries to handle each situation with a calm, pleasant grace and a plentiful store of information on Nebraska roads, weather, historical and scenic sites, hunting and fishing spots, museums, lodging and restaurants, crops and folklore.

In conversing with tourists, Margaret lets the visitor be her guide. "I try to feel out and see what they want, and sort of go from there," she says. "I've found you can't change people's ideas and you shouldn't try. But you can try to work some common ground into their trip."

Tourists' expectations of the state range from flat-as-a-board to hilly and wooded, like Iowa. Those who express dismay at the long flat drive ahead get an explanation that, yes, the Interstate is naturally flat since it follows a river valley — but there are hilly areas too, such as the unique Sandhills, the Pine Ridge region, the Wildcat Hills.

"Just Passing Through" A "just-passing-through" attitude is voiced by a woman from Miami Beach who appears in the tourist lounge seeking information. Margaret turns her attention from interview to business.

"How far across the state can we get this afternoon?" the woman wants to know. Margaret points out Ogallala on her big Nebraska desk map.

"What is it called? Ogallala?" asks the visitor. "That's an odd name. Maybe we can make it by 6:30. We've been driving since 8:15." Margaret obliges with information on motel accommodations in Ogallala.

Three single women from the Hartford, Conn., area are interested in seeing Nebraska before continuing on their camping trip to the Southwest. Margaret shows them a brochure on the state capital.

"It's a novelty to see spaces," enthuses another. "The grass is very velvety. We just lay on it. It's like a cushion."
"When you're in the East, you don't know about the West," admits the third. "It's sad."

Others have trouble with "odd" Nebraska place names like "Keeney" and "North Platte."

A tour guide must be sensitive to situations and ready for just about anything. One middle-aged man, looking "weary and a little dejected," once asked Margaret to change his route.

Then, in tears, he explained that he had come through on the Interstate the year before with his wife — now two or three months deceased. The countryside reminded him of her. Margaret suggested a route through the Sandhills where the scenery would be completely different.

One of several dozen state tour guides who man information booths at Interstate rest stops — most of them only during the summer — Margaret brings considerable public relations experience to her job. Formerly a credit reporter, she dealt with the public every day over the telephone.

Lot More Fun
"But this is so much easier and a lot more fun," she says. Especially fun was the week-long orientation tour which took the guides to all corners of the state with DED tourism chief John Rosenow, tour guide director Bruce Christensen and consultant Dr. Robert Manley.

The only thing that troubles Margaret about her work is that she seldom hears from the tourists she has met. "I've sent so many people over these roads... How long they stay here and ask questions gives you an indication whether they'll follow your route. But you wonder..."

One exception was a young Salem, Ore., man who dropped her a card telling her where he had gone and what a "great time" he had in Nebraska.

Otherwise, the only indication of travelers' reactions to the state — and to Margaret — is the entries they make in the guest book: "Fine roads and great land" ... "We're natives! home sweet home" ... "Neat & Cool — better than Iowa's" ... "Love these rest areas" ... "So far so good" ... "Very gracious lady at desk."

Val Eberspacher Wins Champion Steer Honor

Kansas City, Mo. — Seward County 4-H'er Val Eberspacher, 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Eberspacher of Beaver Crossing, Neb., added to his list of wins Monday when his 1,135-pound Limousin-Angus crossbred was named champion 4-H steer at the American Royal Livestock Show here.

Eberspacher also exhibited the reserve grand champion steer of the 1973 show. His older brother Jack has the winning entry in the carcass contest in 1972.

Recent winners for Val include grand champion market steer at the 1973 Nebraska State Fair and seventh place showman at the Ak-Sar-Ben Livestock Show.

In 1972, Jack made Ak-Sar-Ben history by exhibiting the grand champion market steer, then claiming the outstanding beef showman title.

Earlier, Brent Marvin of Imperial took third place in the individual competition and fourth in the sheep judging in the 4-H livestock judging contest. Marvin's Chase County 4-H livestock judging team also placed seventh in the competition.

Dunlap Sold To Couples

DUNLAP, Neb. (AP)—Two young couples from San Jose, Calif., have bought this town — looking for the "quiet life."

And one of the couples is named Dunlap.

Gary and Ellen Davis and Bob and Melody Dunlap said they just got tired of city living and were searching for something else.

Davis and his wife Ellen have moved in and the Dunlaps will follow later.
Dunlap is an unincorporated community located along Highway 385 between Chadron and Hemingford. The 10-acre site includes a combined gas station-grocery store-cafe and a motel and dance hall.

Davis, a native of New York State, lived in San Jose for 11 years and worked as a mechanic.

"I really never got acquainted in the community because of its size and it seems like it just kept getting bigger and bigger," Davis said. "I went to work every day just wondering what life was all about."

Davis said he and the Dunlaps talked about going into business somewhere "but we'd never gotten real serious about it."

Last August, he said, he read about the offer of Mrs. Dorothy Yoakum to sell her property. Davis said he ran over to Dunlaps' house and said, "Hey Bob, look! Buy your own town."

They traveled to Dunlap, looked it over and said they spent several hours at nearby Box Butte Reservoir tossing rocks into the lake while trying to think of reasons for not buying the property.

They bought it.
Davis said he had been in Nebraska only once before, and that was a "fast trip" along the Interstate.

Dunlap was founded in the late 1800s and is one of the oldest rural community stores in western Nebraska.

Dunlap doesn't appear on most highway maps. For business purposes, the two young couples said they intend to do something about that, too.

7 Names Are Added To Roads Death List

Seven names have been added to Nebraska's list of 1973 traffic fatalities. Six of the victims died in weekend accidents. The latest deaths included:

William Engdahl, 22, Craig.
Henry Rosenkotter, 86, Grand Island.

Steven Franks, 24, Lincoln.
Vera Lusins, 64, Lincoln.
Richard Zila, 16, Verdigris.

Mrs. Florence Hild, 63, Plattsmouth.
Mrs. Janice Hahn, 46, Springfield.

Engdahl, a Wayne State College student, was killed Monday in a one-vehicle accident south of Wayne on Highway 15. Authorities said his car ran off the road and into a ditch.

The State Patrol said Rosenkotter was killed Sunday when a car driven by his 70-year-old wife collided with a Sunday school bus at a Grand Island intersection. Another passenger, in the car, Hattie Schrein, 80, was hospitalized. There were no injuries aboard the bus.

Franks, of 5615 L, was killed when the pickup truck he was driving was involved in a near head-on collision with a car on Hwy. 2 about one and one-half miles west of Palmyra, according to the State Patrol.

The Patrol said Emil Beranek, 71, of Pawnee City, driver of the other car was listed in critical condition at Bryan Memorial Hospital. His wife, Elsie, 68, was listed in serious condition.

Franks was westbound and the Beranek vehicle was eastbound when the accident occurred Sunday night, according to the Patrol.

Emil Beranek sustained a broken leg and hips and his wife sustained severe lacerations, according to the Patrol.

Funeral services for Franks will be held at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday at the Hodgman-

Splain-Roberts Mortuary. He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth L. Franks, Lincoln, a brother, Gary, Lincoln; a sister, Denise, Lincoln; and his grandparents, Mrs. Mildred Franks of Lincoln, and Mr. and Mrs. Knox Henry of Dallas, Texas.

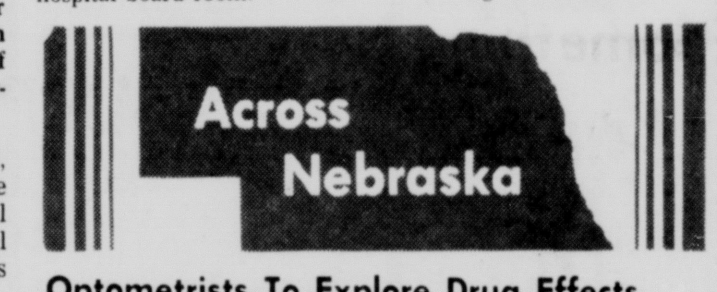

Mrs. Lusins lost her life Saturday night in a two-car collision at a Lincoln intersection.

Authorities said Mrs. Hild and Mrs. Hahn were killed near Springfield Friday night when Mrs. Hahn's car collided with an auto being driven by Mrs. Hild's husband.

The deaths bring the state's 1973 traffic fatality count to 345, compared with 403 on Oct. 22, 1972.

State Corrections Official 'Wouldn't Favor Coed Prisons'

By United Press International
 One state corrections official said Monday he wouldn't go for the idea of coed prisons while another official said more research is needed.
 "I imagine prisoners would probably love it," said Victor Walker, director of the State Correctional Services Department, "but I wouldn't be in favor of coed prisons."
 The idea of putting male and female prisoners in the same institution was suggested in a report released Sunday by the National Advisory Commission on Criminal Justice.
 Charles Wolff, state prison warden, said "educational institutions haven't been esablished as functional yet" despite the release of the commission report.

 He said "they deserve more research," but so far there's been only talk and no experience.
 The report also made other suggestions, including one that prisons should have individual rooms.
 "Absolutely," was Wolff's response to that suggestion. He said both he and Walker have advocated that idea for some time.
 The commission also recommended guard uniforms be eliminated as well as weapons.
 Walker said he didn't think those who wrote the report were very familiar with prisons. "We just don't have weapons where prisons are," he said.
 Wolff added that "the only weapons we have now are in the towers and are used only in emergencies."

Woman Sues Hospital

A $100,000 suit was filed in Lancaster District Monday by LaVerne M. Proctor against Bryan Hospital in connection with alleged burns received from "scalding" water in a patient shower and tub area.

The plaintiff alleges that on July 31, 1972, she was admitted to the hospital for a nervous condition and Aug. 4 she asked to wash her hair.

According to the petition, hospital staff unlocked the shower and tub area door and allowed the plaintiff to enter the area alone for the purpose of washing hair, showering, etc.

The plaintiff alleges negligence on the part of the hospital in allowing a patient under medication to enter the shower and tub area without supervision and in having faucets which were not installed so they all turn on and off in the same direction.

According to the petitioner, the faucets had no mixing valve and scalding water was allowed to be supplied to the patient bath area resulting in scalding burns to the plaintiff.

Injured Inmate Files Suit

A $50,000 suit has been filed in Lancaster District Court against the State of Nebraska by a Nebraska Penal Complex inmate in connection with injuries received while the plaintiff was working in the prison furniture factory.

Jerry Cossaart alleges that while an inmate at the Penal Complex on Nov. 24, 1972 he was cutting lumber with a table saw as part of his duties in working at the furniture factory.

He contends that while cutting a board the blade catapulted into the plaintiff's stomach injuring the abdominal wall and lower intestine which necessitated three surgical operations.

The plaintiff charges that the officials at the complex were negligent in not having any railing or guards on the saw, in failing to give warning that there were no railings nor guards and in failing to inspect the equipment.

Market Closes Lower

New York (AP) — The stock market retreated Monday in reaction to calls for President Nixon's impeachment after his dismissal of the special Watergate prosecutor.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which had ranged from a 7-point loss during the morning to a 2-point gain in early afternoon, closed down 3.16 at 960.57.

Declines swamped advances, 1,125 to 344, among the 1,774 issues changing hands on the New York Stock Exchange. Volume on the Veteran's Day holiday was a moderate 14.29 million shares.

The Big Board's composite index of some 1,500 common stocks lost 61 to finish at 58.88.

"The market declined in response to the widespread discussion of impeachment proceedings against the President," said Robert Wade of Drexel, Burnham & Co.

"But it was a rather modest decline, considering the gravity of such a step, and reflects the market's basic strength," he added.

Other analysts said Egypt's and Israel's acceptance of the U.N. cease-fire proposal also contributed to the market's resiliency, particularly demonstrated by the strong showing by international oils.

Among the multinational oils that posted broad price gains were Exxon, up 1/8 to 39 1/2, and Gulf, up 1/8 to 39 1/2.

British Petroleum, the Big Board volume leader, dipped 1/8 to 39 1/2, and the London-based oil giant, reflecting decreased interest in domestic oil producers as a result of the Middle East settlement.

S&P Corp. dropped 5/8 to 13 1/2 after reporting quarterly earnings were about half the 1972 figure. Gillette, which earlier had posted relatively flat profits, rose 1/8 to 49 1/2.

Telex Corp. rose 1/8 to 5 1/2 after a federal judge had said he would determine the amount of antitrust damages IBM must pay Telex without calling for new hearings. IBM lost 1/8 to 28 1/2.

On the American Stock Exchange, losers outnumbered gainers by 3 to 1, and the market-value index fell 1.28 to 107.68.

The NASDAQ composite index of over-the-counter trading dropped 1/8 to 112.29.

GATEWAY REALTY

THIS IS THE KEY TO YOUR HOUSING PROBLEM!

Current financing on new homes confuses some people. The best question seems to be "interest rate?" Some people think they're going down. In Lincoln, however, interest rates are lower than in many other parts of the country. While you wait to buy, construction costs rise!

We suggest some answers to this problem!

1. If you think rates will drop, lease a new Peterson home with an option to buy later if rates drop.

2. Buy now and deduct your income loan interest from your income tax. With this deduction and your growing value you may find you're living almost rent free!
